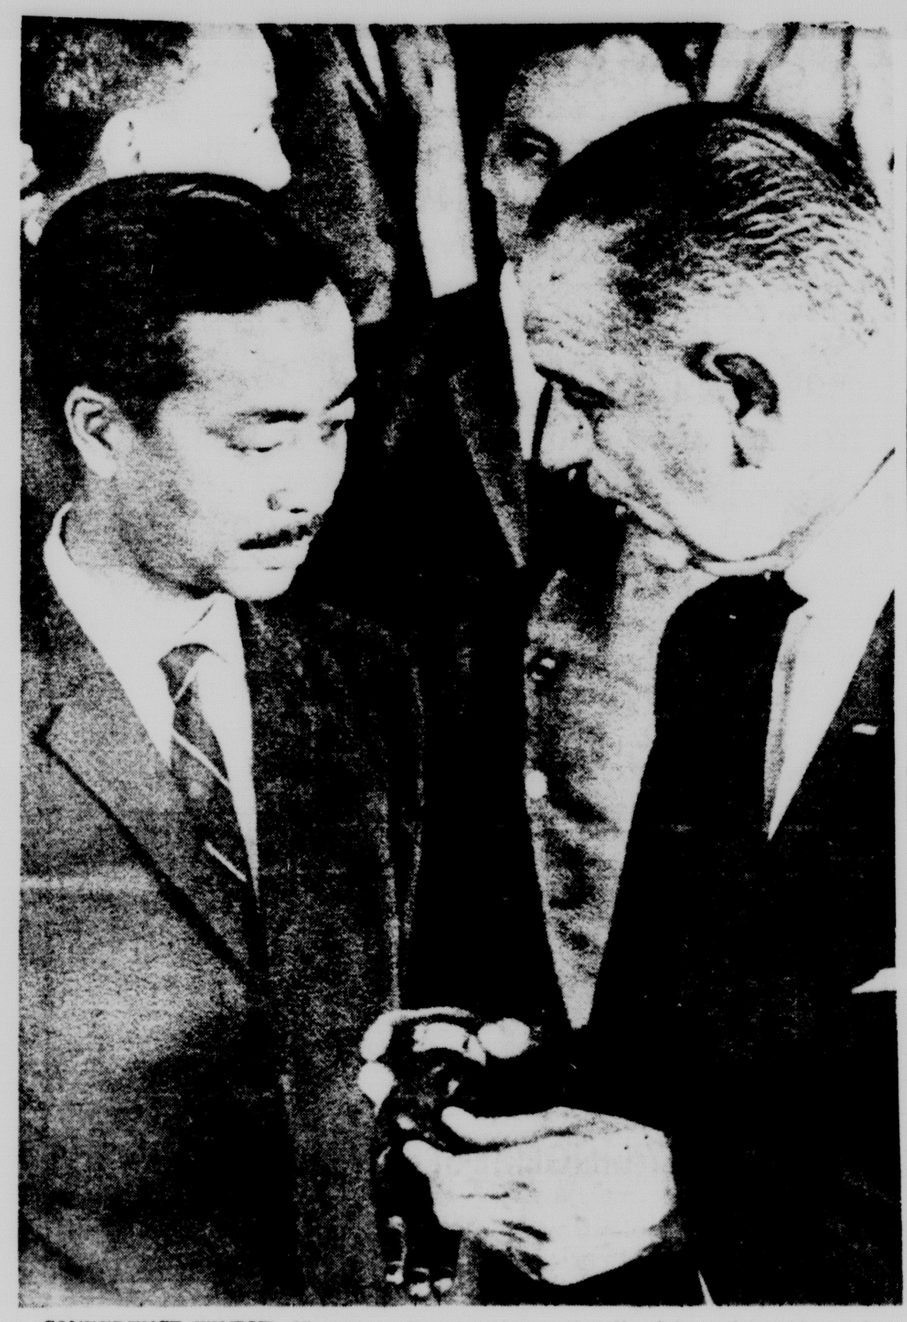
LBJ To Meet Viet Leaders Again Soon



CONFERENCE WINDUP. Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky (left) and President Johnson talk as they departed from Pacific Command Headquarters Tuesday in Honolulu after their historic three-day conference. WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson returned today from the Honolulu conference confident "we shall prevail" in the battle against aggression in Viet Nam. He says he will meet again with South Vietnamese leaders "within the next few months."

Declaring he felt "refreshed and confident" from his talks with top Vietnamese officials, Johnson said in a statement during a Los Angeles stopover Tuesday night that they know social and political progress "cannot wait until the guns grow silent and terrorism stops."

During his 105-minute Los Angeles stop, Johnson conferred with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, then wished him Godspeed on a mission to Saigon to spur the political, economic and social programs outlined at Honolulu.

Johnson then headed back to Washington in the presidential jet which had carried him to Hawaii last Saturday. Within two minutes of the President's takeoff Humphrey was off across the Pacific on his way to Honolulu to join the South Vietnamese leaders for the trip to Saigon. The vice president also plans to visit some additional Asian capitals.

Johnson's jet landed at nearby Andrews Air Force base at 5:22 a.m. (EST). The President switched to a helicopter for the hop to the White House, touching down on the south lawn 16 minutes later.

Earlier Tuesday, Johnson and the Vietnamese chiefs ended three days of what they called "the most intense and friendly discussion." In a "Declaration of Honolulu," they vowed to fight aggression, meet the hopes of the people of South Viet Nam and press the search for lasting peace.

Although the communique emphasized the nonmilitary programs for economic and social improvement, South Viet Nam's leaders made it plain in a news conference that they favored stepped-up air operations against the chief North Vietnamese port of Haiphong and other industrial targets.

Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu said he would be unwilling to sit down at a conference table with representatives of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas. U. S. officials have said NLF representation would not be a roadblock to the start of negotiations.

The 10-point communique said in the only paragraph devoted to military matters that "there was a full discussion of the military situation and of military plans and programs" and added without elaboration:

"The leaders of the two governments reached full agreement on a policy of growing military effectiveness and of still closer cooperation between the military forces of Viet Nam and those of the United States."

The other nine points as well as the bulk of declarations by the U. S. and Vietnamese governments were devoted to what was summed up in "the common commitment" as a renewed pledge "to the work of social revolution, the goal of free self-government, the attack on hunger, ignorance and disease, and the unending quest for peace."

The Vietnamese leaders, in a statement, pledged dedication "to the eradication of social injustice among our people" and continued:

"We must bring about a true social revolution and construct a modern society in which every man can know that he has a future; that he has respect and dignity; that he has the opportunity for himself and for his children to live in an environment where all is not disappointment, despair and dejection; that the opportunities exist for the full expression of his talents and his hopes."

Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, at the earlier news conference, referred to 1967 as "the year we will have free elections" and also when "we will eliminate the influence of the Communists in South Viet Nam."

The United States, for its part, pledged to fight aggression, to support "the principles of the self-determination of peoples and of government by consent of the governed," to work to stamp out hunger, ignorance and disease and stressed that "no path to peace shall be unexplored."

Among the points in the communique section were these:

—The two governments will "take further concrete steps to combat inflation."

—High priority will be given to an "intensified program of rural construction."

—Efforts will be stepped up to bring agricultural knowhow "to the farmer in the fields" and for "more rapid land reform."

—"Programs in health and education would be intensified."

—Americans will assist programs to care for refugees including providing schools for refugee children.

In Los Angeles, Johnson remained in his plane for more than an hour in talks with Humphrey and other officials.

Several score pickets, bearing signs reading "Make love not war!" and "Negotiate now!" turned out at Los Angeles International Airport for the President's arrival.

When he disembarked, Johnson strode into a hangar and, flanked by Humphrey, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, read his statement to reporters. Television and radio networks carried it live across the country.

Humphrey Heading For South Viet

Plans To Press For Vigorous Action On Johnson's Demands

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey headed for Saigon today to press for vigorous action on President Johnson's demands for political, economic and social progress for warring South Viet Nam.

After a hurried airport conference with the President in Los Angeles Tuesday night Humphrey flew to Honolulu for a six-hour stopover before continuing on across the Pacific.

Flying from Honolulu with Humphrey were South Viet Nam's current top leaders, who gave abundant evidence Tuesday that they want a tougher war against Communist North Viet Nam along with the programs to better the life of the peasants.

The vice president is on a 10- or 12-day mission that also will take him to about five other Asian nations. Officials here said they did not know Humphrey's next stop after South Viet Nam.

Sources in Washington said Humphrey's tour would include the capitals of Thailand, Malaysia, Australia and India. Prime Minister Keith Holyoake of New Zealand said the vice president also would go to Auckland. Informed sources in Bangkok said the vice president would fly to the Thai capital from Saigon Friday night and would stay until Saturday afternoon.

The first job assigned him by the President is to familiarize himself with the various economic, social and political improvement projects, to spur the efforts on, and to return to the United States in a position to help nurture the work at the Washington end.

India 'Chills' Hopes

Ho's Letter Contains No Peace Talk Signal

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The Indian government today chilled hopes that a letter from North Viet Nam's President Ho Chi Minh may have contained the peace talk signal awaited by the Johnson administration.

In the midst of worldwide speculation over the meaning of Ho's Jan. 24 message to Indian President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan, an official government spokesman said it was "mostly concerned with stating the position of his country."

Except for emphasizing India's special position as chairman of the International Control Commission, the Indochina peacekeeping agency, Ho did not go beyond previous proclamations from Hanoi, the spokesman said.

Nevertheless, he said, India was continuing its talks with "friendly countries" to find a way to end the fighting.

Reports of the letter caught officials in Washington by surprise Tuesday. A State Department spokesman said the Indians had not apprised the United States of the letter, nor had the text been made available.

Although many U.S. officials suspected the note differed little from others sent to various capitals by the North Vietnamese chief 17 days ago, the possibility of a peace feeler from Hanoi rocked the New York Stock Exchange. Defense issues were hardest hit in the heaviest trading in months.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the letter "could be of great significance. If we respond in the right way, it could be helpful."

There was no comment from the White House.

The North Vietnamese Consulate General in New Delhi said Ho wrote Radhakrishnan that India as chairman of the International Control Commission bears a special responsibility for the restoration of peace. But it was apparent that Ho meant peace on his terms.

A spokesman for the consulate general confirmed that the letter to the Indian president was one of several sent out by Ho on Jan. 24 denouncing President Johnson's post-Christmas "peace offensive."

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, who also received a letter from Ho, told the House of Commons Tuesday that Canada has been conferring with India and Poland on possible use of the International Control Commission as a possible vehicle for negotiations. They are the three members of the commission.

The International Control Commission was created by the 1954 Geneva Conference which ended French rule in Indochina and created the separate states of North and South Viet Nam.

The Soviet Union repeated its opposition to any peace moves through the United Nations. A commentary in the Communist party paper Pravda accused the United States of seeking to kill the Geneva agreements by forcing the Security Council to put Viet Nam on its agenda.

Over Soviet objections, the council approved the U.S. request last Wednesday but the debate has been put off indefinitely while private diplomatic consultations continue at U.N. headquarters in New York.

U.S. Planes Push Raids In Viet Nam

Both North, South Targets Hit; Cong 'Sidestep' Allies

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. jet fighter-bombers stepped up their attacks in North and South Viet Nam today while the Viet Cong still sidestepped the big Allied ground forces trying to hunt them down.

While the ground war tapered off significantly, the U.S. Military Command announced that the number of Americans killed in combat last week rose by more than 50 per cent. A spokesman said 89 Americans were killed, 499 wounded and eight missing in action compared with 57 Americans killed, 281 wounded and 11 missing in the previous seven days.

In separate sweeps, American and Australian troops stumbled onto Viet Cong caches of rice totaling 335 tons — enough to feed thousands of men for weeks — and stores of howitzer ammunition.

In Vientiane, capital of neighboring Laos, a spokesman for the Laotian Defense Ministry reported North Vietnamese tanks had been seen for the first time on the Ho Chi Minh Trail through eastern Laos, en route to South Viet Nam. Qualified military sources in Saigon, however, were skeptical of the report. They said tanks might be more of a liability than an asset to the Viet Cong.

The Strategic Air Command's eight-engine B52s from Guam joined the air offensive in the past 24 hours, pounding Viet Cong concentrations in Tay Ninh Province near the Cambodian border and in Phu Yen Province on the central plains, U.S. spokesmen said.

No American planes were reported lost in the double-barreled air action on both sides of the 17th Parallel.

The 7th Fleet carriers Ticonderoga and Ranger sent 17 jet missions against the North. The Navy planes smashed four road and rail bridges and cut several highways in the Dong Hoi and Vinh areas, spokesmen said.

Committee OK Of $4.8 Billion Seen

Critics In Senate Signal More Viet Policy Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee takes up today an emergency military fund request for the Viet Nam war while Senate critics signal continued attacks on President Johnson's Southeast Asia policies.

The committee was expected to approve a measure which would authorize $4.8 billion in defense costs. This would open the way to later action on the full $12.8-billion money package of military and economic aid Johnson asked.

In advance of this action, Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., spokesman for a group of 16 senators who opposed resumption of North Viet Nam bombing, predicted nearly unanimous Senate approval of the measure.

"Nobody is going to vote against providing all of the equipment and firepower our men in Viet Nam need," he said in an interview. "But that doesn't mean that we won't continue to criticize the policies that have put them in Viet Nam and which threaten to expand the war."

Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., said he expected quick approval for the Viet Nam authorization from his Senate Armed Services Committee.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, principal source of dissent to the President's course, laid aside for the day its inquiry into Southeast Asia policies. It called for testimony from Jack Hood Vaughn, former assistant secretary of state for Latin-American affairs, on his nomination as Peace Corps director.

The committee heard retired Army Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin predict Tuesday that any massive increase in U. S. troops in Viet Nam might spur the Communists to reopen the war in Korea.

In Gavin's view, the United States is in the position of a tightrope walker, with the enemy able to cut the rope.

"We can't afford to pull out," he said, "but we shouldn't escalate."

West Virginia Conferees Agree On 66-67 Budget

CHARLESTON (AP) — Agreement by West Virginia Senate-House conferees on the state budget for next fiscal year was announced today, leaving only some differences to settle with the Board of Public Works before the bill can be brought to the floor for final legislative passage.

"It looks very much like we'll be out of here tomorrow night sometime," Finance Chairman Ivor F. Bolarsky, D-Kanawha, told the House of Delegates.

Bolarsky said the 10-member joint conference committee resolved differences between Senate and House versions of the $198.9-million general revenue budget in a session running late Tuesday night.

Midnight Thursday is the constitutional adjournment deadline for the Legislature's 30-day regular session. However, the lawmakers could legally continue through Sunday, if necessary, in an extended session restricted solely to passing the budget.

The Senate - passed birth control clinics bill appeared today to be fighting a losing battle to stay alive in the House, where a similar Senate-approved measure died without coming to a vote last year.

Seven bills — including the one before the Senate which would provide sick - leave benefits for non-teaching public school employes — were up for passage as the 1966 session entered its next to last day.

Meanwhile, the proposal to change the constitutional method of governing circuit courts received the necessary two-thirds approval in both houses. The House - passed enabling bill to place the issue before the voters was at passage stage in the Senate today.

In other Tuesday action, the Senate passed and sent to the House measures to stiffen West Virginia's anti - gambling law and give the state power to capture long - abandoned and unclaimed property and accounts. Going to the governor was the measure providing for reorganization of the State Mental Health Department.

The House previously had passed the unclaimed property measure but had to concur with Senate amendments before the bill could go to the governor. The main change proposed was to make the bill effective July 1, 1967.

The anti - gambling bill, aimed primarily at coin - operated pinball and slot machines and making possession of such "gambling devices" a misdemeanor, was referred to the House Judiciary Committee. Its House counterpart has spent the better part of the session in the committee with no apparent chance of getting out.

Among the measures passed and sent to the governor Tuesday was the state's first minimum wage and hours bill. When it goes into effect Jan. 1, 1967, all businesses with six or more employes in any one place will have to pay their employes $1 an hour and time and a half for work beyond 48 hours a week.

Jurors Indict Ice For Death Of Local Man

The recalled January Grand Jury Tuesday afternoon returned a first-degree manslaughter indictment against Chester Ice Jr., 28, of 2212 Ohio Ave. in connection with the death of Charles J. Adams, 29, of 2201 Harvey Ave. following a fight Saturday night outside the Bar-X Tavern on the Y. & O. Rd. west of Glenmoor.

Ice remained in the County Jail at Lisbon today, unable to raise a $3,000 appearance bond set by the court.

Ice had pleaded not guilty to a manslaughter charge Monday afternoon at arraignment before County Judge Herbert Arfman and his preliminary hearing had been set for next Monday. However, Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis decided to present the case direct to the Grand Jury, obviating the necessity for further action in the lower court.

Authorities charged that Ice and Mr. Adams were involved in a fight in a parking lot outside the tavern after an argument inside. Mr. Adams was removed to City Hospital in an ambulance. He died Saturday at 9:25 p. m. of multiple skull fractures and severe facial lacerations.

Dr. William Kolozsi of Salem, county coroner, ruled the death a homicide. Authorities said Ice left the tavern with some friends shortly after the fight, but later surrendered himself.

State Boosts Horsepower For Guilford Lake Boats

A revision of the minimum horsepower limitation for boats on Guilford Lake has been made by the Ohio Division of Parks and Recreation.

Outboard motor limits were changed from 3.6 to 10 horsepower on Guilford, Cowan, Burr Oak, Action and Logan lakes.

The change in the power limits has been opposed by the Guilford Lake Civic Association, which claims the increased speed would endanger other watercraft and be a threat to swimmers.

Members of the association also maintain the larger motors will affect fishing and the motor wash will stir up the lake bottom and erode the shorelines.

Charles Pike, counsel for the association, said today he has not yet been informed of the decision.

Pymatuning Lake will remain with a 10-horsepower limit. On Strouds Run and Forked Run Lakes, the limit will remain at 3.6 horsepower.

Changes in state park camping fees, classification of campsites, extended hours and season for park usage and outboard motor regulations also were announced by the Division of Parks and Recreation at Columbus.

Simplification of charges for camping sites led to adoption of this rate structure: For Class A camps, the rate is now $1.75 per night per group, regardless of the number during the regular season. Previously an additional charge was made for each person over four.

During the season, the group fee will be $1 per night. Youth groups will be 25 cents per person, per night.

For Class B camps, the charge will be $1.25 per camp during the season and $1 for off season camping.

The division extended park use to from April 1 to Nov. 15 with all being from 6 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. An 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. operating time is in effect for the rest of the year.

All state parks having campgrounds are now open all year.

GM Plans 2 Major Auto Safety Steps

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors made a major move in the auto safety field today when it announced that two safety features, a collapsible steering column and dual brakes, would be standard equipment on all its 1967 model passenger cars.

GM gave no indication whether the cost of the items would be reflected in increased prices for its cars. Traditionally, auto firms do not disclose new car prices until model announcement time.

GM President James M. Roche said, "In the event of a severe front-end collision, the steering column on 1967 GM cars will 'collapse', or shorten at a controlled rate when the force of impact is applied to it at either end."

Roche explained that special mountings on the dashboard and beneath the instrument panel would permit the steering column to absorb energy under force from an accident.

"This would cushion the impact of the driver against the steering wheel and also would prevent the column from being forced towards the driver," he said.

FCC Debate Planned On CATV Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission meets Thursday to debate the future of community antenna television.

Chairman E. William Henry has said final action by the commission is unlikely at the special closed session.

The FCC last year asserted jurisdiction over all CATV systems that use microwave relay systems to pass television signals from distant stations to community antennaes.

The commission must decide now whether to extend that jurisdiction to all of the nation's 1,600 CATV systems, including those that use microwave relay or merely erect an antenna to pull down available television signals and then relay them by cable into the homes of fee-paying subscribers.

A majority of the commission is believed to favor such total jurisdiction.

The Senate-passed birth control clinics bill appeared today to be fighting a losing battle to stay alive in the House, where a similar Senate-approved measure died without coming to a vote last year.

Seven bills — including the one before the Senate which would provide sick-leave benefits for non-teaching public school employes — were up for passage as the 1966 session entered its next to last day.

Meanwhile, the proposal to change the constitutional method of governing circuit courts received the necessary two-thirds approval in both houses. The House-passed enabling bill to place the issue before the voters was at passage stage in the Senate today.

In other Tuesday action, the Senate passed and sent to the House measures to stiffen West Virginia's anti-gambling law and give the state power to capture long-abandoned and unclaimed property and accounts. Going to the governor was the measure providing for reorganization of the State Mental Health Department.

The House previously had passed the unclaimed property measure but had to concur with Senate amendments before the bill could go to the governor. The main change proposed was to make the bill effective July 1, 1967.

The anti-gambling bill, aimed primarily at coin-operated pinball and slot machines and making possession of such "gambling devices" a misdemeanor, was referred to the House Judiciary Committee. Its House counterpart has spent the better part of the session in the committee with no apparent chance of getting out.

Among the measures passed and sent to the governor Tuesday was the state's first minimum wage and hours bill. When it goes into effect Jan. 1, 1967, all businesses with six or more employes in any one place will have to pay their employes $1 an hour and time and a half for work beyond 48 hours a week.

Jurors Indict Ice For Death Of Local Man

The recalled January Grand Jury Tuesday afternoon returned a first-degree manslaughter indictment against Chester Ice Jr., 28, of 2212 Ohio Ave. in connection with the death of Charles J. Adams, 29, of 2201 Harvey Ave. following a fight Saturday night outside the Bar-X Tavern on the Y. & O. Rd. west of Glenmoor.

Ice remained in the County Jail at Lisbon today, unable to raise a $3,000 appearance bond set by the court.

Ice had pleaded not guilty to a manslaughter charge Monday afternoon at arraignment before County Judge Herbert Arfman and his preliminary hearing had been set for next Monday. However, Prosecuting Atty. J. Warren Bettis decided to present the case direct to the Grand Jury, obviating the necessity for further action in the lower court.

Authorities charged that Ice and Mr. Adams were involved in a fight in a parking lot outside the tavern after an argument inside. Mr. Adams was removed to City Hospital in an ambulance. He died Saturday at 9:25 p.m. of multiple skull fractures and severe facial lacerations.

Dr. William Kolozsi of Salem, county coroner, ruled the death a homicide. Authorities said Ice left the tavern with some friends shortly after the fight, but later surrendered himself.

State Boosts Horsepower For Guilford Lake Boats

A revision of the minimum horsepower limitation for boats on Guilford Lake has been made by the Ohio Division of Parks and Recreation.

Outboard motor limits were changed from 3.6 to 10 horsepower on Guilford, Cowan, Burr Oak, Action and Logan lakes.

The change in the power limits has been opposed by the Guilford Lake Civic Association, which claims the increased speed would endanger other watercraft and be a threat to swimmers.

Members of the association also maintain the larger motors will affect fishing and the motor wash will stir up the lake bottom and erode the shorelines.

Charles Pike, counsel for the association, said today he has not yet been informed of the decision.

Pymatuning Lake will remain with a 10-horsepower limit. On Strouds Run and Forked Run Lakes, the limit will remain at 3.6 horsepower.

Changes in state park camping fees, classification of campsites, extended hours and season for park usage and outboard motor regulations also were announced by the Division of Parks and Recreation at Columbus.

Simplification of charges for camping sites led to adoption of this rate structure: For Class A camps, the rate is now $1.75 per night per group, regardless of the number during the regular season. Previously an additional charge was made for each person over four.

During the season, the group fee will be $1 per night. Youth groups will be 25 cents per person, per night.

For Class B camps, the charge will be $1.25 per camp during the season and $1 for off season camping.

The division extended park use to from April 1 to Nov. 15 with all being from 6 a.m. to 10:30 p.m. An 8 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. operating time is in effect for the rest of the year.

All state parks having campgrounds are now open all year.

GM Plans 2 Major Auto Safety Steps

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors made a major move in the auto safety field today when it announced that two safety features, a collapsible steering column and dual brakes, would be standard equipment on all its 1967 model passenger cars.

GM gave no indication whether the cost of the items would be reflected in increased prices for its cars. Traditionally, auto firms do not disclose new car prices until model announcement time.

GM President James M. Roche said, "In the event of a severe front-end collision, the steering column on 1967 GM cars will 'collapse', or shorten at a controlled rate when the force of impact is applied to it at either end."

Roche explained that special mountings on the dashboard and beneath the instrument panel would permit the steering column to absorb energy under force from an accident.

"This would cushion the impact of the driver against the steering wheel and also would prevent the column from being forced towards the driver," he said.

FCC Debate Planned On CATV Future

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Communications Commission meets Thursday to debate the future of community antenna television.

Chairman E. William Henry has said final action by the commission is unlikely at the special closed session.

The FCC last year asserted jurisdiction over all CATV systems that use microwave relay systems to pass television signals from distant stations to community antennaes.

The commission must decide now whether to extend that jurisdiction to all of the nation's 1,600 CATV systems, including those that use microwave relay or merely erect an antenna to pull down available television signals and then relay them by cable into the homes of fee-paying subscribers.

A majority of the commission is believed to favor such total jurisdiction.

Charles Kurcina New President

Midland Area Fund Unit Names Officers, Directors

Election of officers and seven directors marked the meeting of the Midland Area United Fund Tuesday night at Midland High School.

Charles Kurcina of Ohioville Borough was elevated to the presidency. He succeeds Charles A. Jacoby of Industry.

Other officers elected are: Earl Rankin of Industry, vice president; Nile H. Wain of Midland, executive secretary, and William R. Black of Industry, treasurer. Wain and Black were re-elected, while Rankin is serving his first term. The offices are all for one year.

Three of the directors won re-election. They are Fred G. Wilton, William I. McInerney and Ralph Pope, all of Midland.

Elected to director posts for the first time were William Yee, Mike Hornick and William F. Moll, all of Midland, and Dr. Edward Groceski of Industry.

All directors serve three-year terms.

John Blair, assistant chairman of the UF Beaver County Rochester office, attended the meeting to present Pacesetter Awards to the Humble Oil and Refining Co. of Industry and Midland municipal authorities for their achievements in the drive last fall.

The First National Bank of Midland was retained as depository for the organization.

Meetings of the group were scheduled for the second Wednesday of even months at Midland High School.

Kurcina, who served as campaign co-chairman last fall and as general campaign chairman in 1964, is division superintendent of maintenance at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.

He previously assisted for three years in the fund drive in the Ohioville Borough area.

Kurcina is a member of the American Institute of Steel Engineers and VFW Post 2454 of Bellevue, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurcina have four children and reside at Meadowbrook Estates, Ohioville Borough.

Lisbon Board Rejects Technical School Plan

LISBON — By a vote of 3-2, the Lisbon Board of Education Tuesday night rejected an invitation from the Salem board to join the county's technical school district.

Forrest Lowry moved that Lisbon join the technical program with a second by Mrs. Ruth James. Dr. Wade Bacon, Richard Kennedy and Mrs. Marian Ramsey cast votes against the proposal, however.

Dr. Bacon said he felt a vote to join the district would be "open defiance of and a slap in the face" against the local group active in promoting the Columbiana County Community College. Kennedy said he felt the board's major interest should be the education of Lisbon youth for the first 12 grades.

The board tabled action on whether to repair and replace window shades and rolls at the Lincoln School building or to invest in window tinting. The board was quoted prices from three firms, two of whom deal in window tinting and the other in window shades and rolls.

The board approved an 18-month contract with George Heim of Lisbon for storage of school buses from Feb. 1 through June 30 and then for the following fiscal year. He will be paid $700 a year.

The board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Nancy Budensiek, a special education teacher at McKinley School, effective Feb. 28. She will be replaced by Mrs. Magdalen Whalen of Moline, Ill., wife of Dr. Richard Whalen, director of planning for the proposed community college.

Also hired was Mrs. Rose Smith as high school secretary to replace Mrs. Betty Crosser, who resigned.

Representing the board at the meeting March 3-5 in Columbus of the Ohio School Boards Association will be Kennedy and Supt. Oliver Payne.

The board approved a request by George M. Nace Jr., high school principal, to attend the North Central Association meeting March 28-30 in Chicago.

A resolution authorizing Lisbon schools to participate in Title I and II funds and programs was approved.

The board set March 16 as the date for an inspection visit to David Anderson High School in connection with renovation plans.

The board gave permission to Fr. William Hohman of St. George's Roman Catholic Church to use the Lincoln School building June 20 through July 8 for catechism classes.

Cars Hit In Skidding Near Newell Bridge

Hancock County sheriff's deputies estimated more than $1,000 damage resulted from an auto collision shortly after 8 a. m. today near the Newell Bridge on West Virginia Route 66.

A 1965 car driven by Rose Anna Heath, 27, of Newell was rounding a curve when it hit icy pavement, causing loss of control. An oncoming 1963 coupe operated by William R. Kelly, 53, of Forsyth Pl., East Liverpool, was then struck by the careening Heath vehicle.

Deputies estimated damages of $700 and $400 to the Kelly and Heath cars, respectively.

Neither motorist was injured and no charges were filed.

Charles Kurcina New President

Midland Area Fund Unit Names Officers, Directors

Election of officers and seven directors marked the meeting of the Midland Area United Fund Tuesday night at Midland High School.

Charles Kurcina of Ohioville Borough was elevated to the presidency. He succeeds Charles A. Jacoby of Industry.

Other officers elected are: Earl Rankin of Industry, vice president; Nile H. Wain of Midland, executive secretary, and William R. Black of Industry, treasurer. Wain and Black were re-elected, while Rankin is serving his first term. The offices are all for one year.

Three of the directors won re-election. They are Fred G. Wilton, William I. McInerney and Ralph Pope, all of Midland.

Elected to director posts for the first time were William Yee, Mike Hornick and William F. Moll, all of Midland, and Dr. Edward Groceski of Industry.

All directors serve three-year terms.

John Blair, assistant chairman of the UF Beaver County Rochester office, attended the meeting to present Pacesetter Awards to the Humble Oil and Refining Co. of Industry and Midland municipal authorities for their achievements in the drive last fall.

The First National Bank of Midland was retained as depository for the organization.

Meetings of the group were scheduled for the second Wednesday of even months at Midland High School.

Kurcina, who served as campaign co - chairman last fall and as general campaign chairman in 1964, is division superintendent of maintenance at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co.

He previously assisted for three years in the fund drive in the Ohioville Borough area.

Kurcina is a member of the American Institute of Steel Engineers and VFW Post 2454 of Bellevue, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Kurcina have four children and reside at Meadowbrook Estates, Ohioville Borough.

Lisbon Board Rejects Technical School Plan

LISBON — By a vote of 3-2, the Lisbon Board of Education Tuesday night rejected an invitation from the Salem board to join the county's technical school district.

Forrest Lowry moved that Lisbon join the technical program with a second by Mrs. Ruth James. Dr. Wade Bacon, Richard Kennedy and Mrs. Marian Ramsey cast votes against the proposal, however.

Dr. Bacon said he felt a vote to join the district would be "open defiance of and a slap in the face" against the local group active in promoting the Columbiana County Community College. Kennedy said he felt the board's major interest should be the education of Lisbon youth for the first 12 grades.

The board tabled action on whether to repair and replace window shades and rolls at the Lincoln School building or to invest in window tinting. The board was quoted prices from three firms, two of whom deal in window tinting and the other in window shades and rolls.

The board approved an 18-month contract with George Heim of Lisbon for storage of school buses from Feb. 1 through June 30 and then for the following fiscal year. He will be paid $700 a year.

All Fingers Are Crossed

South Viet Nam's official spokesmen in the Hawaiian conference with President Johnson and top-ranking U.S. officials made it plain they are willing to fight to the last American G.I. to preserve their country.

But they made it plain in passing they are willing to agree to extensive social and economic reforms while this is going on, to make the salvation of South Viet Nam seem worthwhile to more of the people who live there.

This concession to internal unrest may be the explanation for the Hawaiian meeting, which was unexpected. Rumors of another political overthrow in Saigon have been circulating—and another upset at this particular time would demolish the figment that the United States is risking a major war in Asia to save something as insecure as the Republic of Viet Nam.

This so-called "republic" has had 10 governments in a little more than 10 years. Its Catholic - Buddhist factions are irreconcilable. For the present government to demand more U.S. troops while its own troops are plagued by desertions, for it to demand more U.S. help in all categories when its own footing is politically precarious is one of those monstrosities of international relations that have plagued this nation ever since President Roosevelt lent Britain that now famous garden hose to put out the fire in 1940.

Beneficiaries of U.S. aid always end up by demanding more and more to save themselves from the Communists their benefactors say must be stopped at any cost. Sooner or later, they get around to talking about unconditional surrender. They have got around to this in South Viet Nam.

There must be no compromise with North Viet Nam, the South Vietnamese told President Johnson in Hawaii. The enemy must be obliterated, extinguished, demolished and exterminated no matter what it costs. South Viet Nam must be saved at any price. The United States must not be niggardly with life and treasure.

Let's keep all our fingers crossed while the saving goes on apace. A couple more political overthrows, with a few assassinations and a continuation of desertions on the part of South Viet Nam's soldiery would make it harder than ever to understand what really is being saved over there in Southeast Asia.

We all know what is being lost over there.

'Sign Out, Please'

The police department at nearby Austintown, Ohio, has a simple but effective method of intercepting a family away from home in case of emergency.

Called "Sign Out, Please," the program, in a nutshell, works like this:

When residents get ready to go on vacation or plan to be out of town for some other reason for an extended period, they leave with the police dates of their departure and expected return; the license number, make, year and color of their car; vacation location; number of occupants in the car, and the name and telephone number to contact in case of emergency.

The plan has proved quite effective.

The East Liverpool and area police departments seldom have been found wanting in time of need, but if they feel the necessity for an improved "location - in - emergency" technique, the Austintown approach certainly seems worthy of consideration.

Nonetheless Deplorable

A showdown occurred in the U. S. Senate this week on the 14B issue.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader of the Senate, already defeated once, will try again Thursday for a vote to close debate. The debate in this instance is a filibuster led by the Republican leader of the Senate, Dirksen of Illinois.

Sens. Mansfield and Dirksen are friends. Mansfield knows what Dirksen is up to and vice versa. There are no secrets between them. Neither is there any animosity.

The Republican leader is carrying on a legislative maneuver to stop something and the Democratic leader is carrying on a counter-maneuver that he knows will be unsuccessful. Two good friends and long-time legislative associates are engaged in the process of deliberative government, which is essentially a process of backing and filling, compromise, hair-splitting and expediency.

One of its techniques is the filibuster, used to prevent a vote that assuredly would go against the filibusterers. So they talk to death what they cannot vote into defeat. It is one of the seamier aspects of government, deplored whenever it is used by Southerners to block proposals hateful to them.

Having used it oftener than anyone else, Southerners have made it appear that the filibuster is their own patented device for blocking civil rights proposals.

The filibuster belongs to no one in particular. It can be used by any bloc of senators. It so happens that it is being used now to block a proposal to repeal a section (14B) of the Labor-Management Act that gives the states the option of passing right-to-work laws if they so choose.

We do not believe 14B should be repealed. We do not believe the unions have earned the right to ride roughshod over the states that have passed right-to-work laws.

But the use of a filibuster to block a vote on the issue is nonetheless deplorable. A filibuster is a denial of representative government.

Letter From Max

By Martin Miller

Dear Truman Twill:

My favorite story of the week is about the production of Tennessee Williams' "Streetcar Named Desire" in Warsaw.

The scene of the play was supposed to be a crumby apartment, but in the Warsaw version the apartment was all dolled up, real fancy-like. The stage designer explained that if he had provided a scene like that used in America the Poles wouldn't have believed it could look that bad and would have figured the designer was just making the U. S. look bad for purposes of Communist propaganda.

This account of what happened, in the Saturday Review, ties in nicely with an article in the current Harper's by Marya Mannes about how confused European scholars became while studying U. S. social problems at a seminar in Salzburg, Austria.

You know, all about how the United States is the wealthiest, most free, strongest, most progressive, smartest and strongest nation in the world. . .

The 42 "Fellows" at the Salzburg seminar knew it too, but when they heard lectures by four Americans on our problems they wondered, at least temporarily.

The problems included youth, the aged, poverty, education, employment, race prejudice, civil disobedience, Viet Nam, urban decay, ideology and economics.

How could such a wonderful country as the U.S. have so much dissatisfaction within its borders?

This is easy. People are never satisfied. If they were, things would be worse. This idea may have finally filtered into the minds of the Europeans.

They sure are a queer lot over there.

Hope you didn't miss Gen. James M. Gavin's objections to the war in Viet Nam. He was chief of plans and operations in the Army when France lost at Dienbienphu.

He says this may be considered a war with China on China's own terms. He favors the U.S. confining itself to holding enclaves on the Vietnamese coast.

Speaking of Viet Nam, have you notice how a certain news magazine keeps "time" for MacNamara's Band?

I was just thinking that the way the prevailing westerly wind here drifts snow deeply on north-south driveways it would be best to have a home with an east-west driveway so the wind would blow it clear of snow.

Only trouble is that an east-west driveway would lead into a north-south road which would be deeply drifted.

You can't win.

Faithfully yours,

What Viet Nam Means To U.S.

By David Lawrence

"What's the Viet Nam War all about?" Many a person who doesn't follow in detail the ups and downs of a war 10,000 miles away asks that question and begins to wonder how it's related to the safety of the United States.

David Lawrence

Out of the many thousands of words written about the war, perhaps the simplest explantation of the whole problem was given by President Johnson on his arrival in Hawaii last Sunday. He summed up the American case in a plain - spoken way. The speech appeared in condensed form in most cities but the actual text of a few paragraphs is worth reading and rereading. The President said:

"It's a question of the gravest importance to all other nations, large or small, whose people seek to walk in peace and independence. For were the Communist aggressors to win in Viet Nam, they would know they can accomplish through so-called wars of national liberation what they could not accomplish through naked aggression in Korea — or insurgency in the Philippines, Greece, and Malaya — or the threat of aggression in Turkey — or in a free election anywhere in the world . . . .

"There are special pleaders who counsel retreat in Viet Nam. They belong to a group that has always been blind to experience and deaf to hope.

"WERE WE TO FOLLOW their course, how many nations might fall before the aggressor? Where would our treaties be respected, our word honored, our commitment believed?

"In the '40s and '50s, we took our stand in Europe to protect the freedom of those threatened by aggression. If we had not then acted, what kind of Europe might there be today? . . .

"If we allow the Communists to win in Viet Nam, it will become easier and more appetizing for them to take over other countries in other parts of the world. We will have to fight again someplace else — at what cost no one knows. That is why it is vitally important to every American family that we stop the Communists in South Viet Nam."

Unfortunately, an appeasement policy which may not attract much attention at the time can turn out later to be the forerunner of a big war. In 1938 many people hailed as the beginning of an era of peace a conference at Munich between British Prime Minister Chamberlain and Adolf Hitler, the head of the Nazi government in Germany. Hitler misconstrued its meaning as weakness and a year later started World War II. He assumed that the British would not fight to defend the continent of Europe and that the United States would never enter the war at all.

UNQUESTIONABLY, the Red Chinese and the Soviets are watching the development inside the United States of a pacifist and isolationist movement which argues that the Viet Nam War is of no consequence to the United States, that troops should be brought home and that Asia should be left to its own devices.

The dangers in this kind of argument would hardly be apparent to those who have not followed closely the pages of history. This correspondent was at Geneva in 1954 when the fate of Indochina was the issue.

It was as evident then as it is today that the Communists were trying to take over in Southeast Asia, and the United States refused to sign the final document because it appeared to be a surrender to the Communists. Immediately thereafter, steps were taken by the United States to draw up a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization comparable to NATO in an attempt to assure peace. The Communists were not dismayed and gradually began to overrun Viet Nam as a start toward the conquest of all of Southeast Asia.

President Johnson's statements this week against retreat and surrender are a timely warning that the United States is resolute and determined to carry on the war until an honorable settlement is made.

The principle of safeguarding small nations against aggression is vital to America's safety in a world menaced by Communist imperialism.

Dear Nephew:

You said a number of people liked what I said last week about suspending auto licenses along with driver licenses, for serious offenses. I have something to add.

In some cases, an auto belonging to an offender who had lost his license might have to be driven by someone else to make a living or keep a household going.

I would permit someone else to drive a car belonging to a person with a suspended license on condition that the car be equipped with temporary license plates of a distinctive color so any traffic policeman could stop it on sight and demand to see its operator's special permit.

This would take care of owner-operated cars.

To take care of non-owner-operated cars, I would beef up the law to make it a serious offense to let any non-licensed driver operate a car belonging to someone else. Owners would demand to see the license. No license, no car.

The penalty would be the same as the penalty for driving with a suspended license -- impounding the car. And because I am willing to go the whole way to rid highways of chronic killers and maimers, especially drunks, there would be no fol-de-rol about the impounding. The keys would be locked in a safe.

The car would stay impounded until released by a court order. The car of anyone aiding and abetting a law violator to turn into a scofflaw, which is the right name for people who drive without licenses, would be impounded too.

Believe me, boy, when word got around that this was the way it was going to be there'd be some changes in the scofflaw sport of driving without licenses. It wouldn't be sporting any more.

We'd take away the scofflaws' wheels — and that would take away the danger of chronic killers. It also would take away the casual attitude of drivers who do reckless, foolish things because there's nothing much to being caught.

The automobile is a necessity in this era. No one wants to lose the use of the one he is counting on to keep him rolling.

I am waiting for legal beagles to tell me it cannot be done.

I am waiting for law enforcers to tell me what is wrong with locking up a chronic drunk's car while the drunk walks it off for six months. Or a chronic accident-causer and rule violator.

What would be wrong about putting license plates of a distinctive color on cars of all persons who accumulate more than a specified number of demerits, so the police can watch them and the rest of us can give them a wide berth.

Your Aunt Effie says I'm getting carried away by this. She's right. I'm scared stiff of being creamed up by one of these slobs who shouldn't be allowed to drive a car in the first place. She sends regards, as always.

Strongly as I believe in and practice kindness to animals, a drive to crack down on medical laboratories while systematic cruelty is being practiced on people in the guise of war seems ill-timed and ill-advised to me.

Finally we joined the crowd and fastened the seat belts that came as standard equipment on our new car. But all we could think about was the way we felt bound in, which made us uncomfortable.

If I ever lead a crusade, it will be against highwaymen who spend hundreds of millions on new expressways, then let me run off into a signaless cul-de-sac when the thing ends in a cornfield, a city slum, or a stretch of trackless suburbia.

Whenever I see show dogs, I wish they would spend a day with our rottenwollie mucking through marshes, digging into creek banks, excavating shallow graves and collecting cockle burrs, to see what it's like to be a real dog in a real world.

It's monstrous when you think about it that family planning in this country is handicapped by lack of funds but funds are available for the same thing in foreign countries, via U.S. aid.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR OF THE REVIEW:

I have never written a letter like this before, but your article in the paper Saturday did it.

I'm not against city water. There are a lot of advantages in having it, but the article by Mr. Popp about drillers and water systems sounded to me like he thought all drillers were out to get the public for every penny they could get.

Thirty years ago my mother had to carry every drop of water we used a distance of two or three city blocks. Today there is a modern submersible pump in the well to put the water anywhere you want it.

IF PEOPLE WHEN they drilled for a new home or installed a new pump would drill deep enough and install good material it would last an estimated six to 10 years. Instead they try to get by with doing the job the cheapest they can. Then when something goes wrong its the driller's fault.

If they were looking around for a new television set, they would want a good one. They are expensive. Running in price from $400 to $800, but its OK, to buy a set because it's a status symbol and a must because the Jones have one.

If your TV went bad, you would think nothing of calling a repairman. This repair man charges you a large fee for just coming out to look at the set. He tells you that the set needs a new picture tube. The cost is $70 to $100 depending on the size of it. People say go right ahead and fix it we can't get along without it. Your pump now goes on the blink. So what do you do? You go down in the basement and try to fix it yourself. But you have no luck. Now you call the repair man. After you have almost ruined the pump. When the repair man tells you it will cost $50 to fix the pump and put it back in operation you think he is a crook.

THESE MEN make a living at this job and yet the people don't trust them. People act as though just because it is a dirty job and a hard one that it could only employ dumbbells. When actually the work they do is very accurate and there are very few people in the world that can do it. But they will always be needed. Why not give your chosen driller a chance? He knows what he is doing.

I'm glad for the people in Calcutta who are about to get their city water. They have waited a long time. You never mentioned what they are paying, but I'll be they aren't getting it for nothing. In the end they will have as much in it as they do their wells.

Modern water systems if installed and taken care of by a trained man aren't any more bother than any other electric appliance. They are almost trouble free. I have had a submersible pump in my own well for five years and it has never been touched. How much better service can you ask for any appliance that does so much for you.

I think Mr. Popp should do an article next time on the good points of wells and pumps. It would only be fair, because he sure knocked them in this one.

Motels are not really a modern innovation. The first motels were built for travelers by imperial decree along the thousands of miles of roads in the ancient Roman empire. Spaced a day's walk apart, the "mansiones," as they were called, were all located near public baths so that dusty travelers could wash up before retiring. But, just as today, those citizens with extra cash could have the luxury of a room with private bath.

Eagles usually return to their same nests year after year, rebuilding and adding material to their "homes." One famous nest in Ohio was observed to serve as an eagle home for 36 years, attaining measurements of 12 feet in depth and 8½ feet across its top. And when it finally fell to the ground, it was estimated to contain at least two tons of sticks.

Throughout the history of the U.S., the proportion of church membership to the total population has mounted steadily. In 1850, only 16 per cent of the population registered as church members. Today the percentage is about 65.

All Fingers Are Crossed

South Viet Nam's official spokesmen in the Hawaiian conference with President Johnson and top-ranking U.S. officials made it plain they are willing to fight to the last American G.I. to preserve their country.

But they made it plain in passing they are willing to agree to extensive social and economic reforms while this is going on, to make the salvation of South Viet Nam seem worthwhile to more of the people who live there.

This concession to internal unrest may be the explanation for the Hawaiian meeting, which was unexpected. Rumors of another political overthrow in Saigon have been circulating—and another upset at this particular time would demolish the figment that the United States is risking a major war in Asia to save something as insecure as the Republic of Viet Nam.

This so-called "republic" has had 10 governments in a little more than 10 years. Its Catholic - Buddhist factions are irreconcilable. For the present government to demand more U.S. troops while its own troops are plagued by desertions, for it to demand more U.S. help in all categories when its own footing is politically precarious is one of those monstrosities of international relations that have plagued this nation ever since President Roosevelt lent Britain that now famous garden hose to put out the fire in 1940.

Beneficiaries of U.S. aid always end up by demanding more and more to save themselves from the Communists their benefactors say must be stopped at any cost. Sooner or later, they get around to talking about unconditional surrender. They have got around to this in South Viet Nam.

There must be no compromise with North Viet Nam, the South Vietnamese told President Johnson in Hawaii. The enemy must be obliterated, extinguished, demolished and exterminated no matter what it costs. South Viet Nam must be saved at any price. The United States must not be niggardly with life and treasure.

Let's keep all our fingers crossed while the saving goes on apace. A couple more political overthrows, with a few assassinations and a continuation of desertions on the part of South Viet Nam's soldiery would make it harder than ever to understand what really is being saved over there in Southeast Asia.

We all know what is being lost over there.

'Sign Out, Please'

The police department at nearby Austintown, Ohio, has a simple but effective method of intercepting a family away from home in case of emergency.

Called "Sign Out, Please," the program, in a nutshell, works like this:

When residents get ready to go on vacation or plan to be out of town for some other reason for an extended period, they leave with the police dates of their departure and expected return; the license number, make, year and color of their car; vacation location; number of occupants in the car, and the name and telephone number to contact in case of emergency.

The plan has proved quite effective.

The East Liverpool and area police departments seldom have been found wanting in time of need, but if they feel the necessity for an improved "location - in - emergency" technique, the Austintown approach certainly seems worthy of consideration.

Nonetheless Deplorable

A showdown occurred in the U. S. Senate this week on the 14B issue.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, Democratic leader of the Senate, already defeated once, will try again Thursday for a vote to close debate. The debate in this instance is a filibuster led by the Republican leader of the Senate, Dirksen of Illinois.

Sens. Mansfield and Dirksen are friends. Mansfield knows what Dirksen is up to and vice versa. There are no secrets between them. Neither is there any animosity.

The Republican leader is carrying on a legislative maneuver to stop something and the Democratic leader is carrying on a counter-maneuver that he knows will be unsuccessful. Two good friends and long-time legislative associates are engaged in the process of deliberative government, which is essentially a process of backing and filling, compromise, hair-splitting and expediency.

One of its techniques is the filibuster, used to prevent a vote that assuredly would go against the filibusterers. So they talk to death what they cannot vote into defeat. It is one of the seamier aspects of government, deplored whenever it is used by Southerners to block proposals hateful to them.

Having used it oftener than anyone else, Southerners have made it appear that the filibuster is their own patented device for blocking civil rights proposals.

The filibuster belongs to no one in particular. It can be used by any bloc of senators. It so happens that it is being used now to block a proposal to repeal a section (14B) of the Labor-Management Act that gives the states the option of passing right-to-work laws if they so choose.

We do not believe 14B should be repealed. We do not believe the unions have earned the right to ride roughshod over the states that have passed right-to-work laws.

But the use of a filibuster to block a vote on the issue is nonetheless deplorable. A filibuster is a denial of representative government.

Through The Years

From The Review Files

THIRTY YEARS AGO — Mrs. Hazel Miller was seated as president of Sigma Alpha Class of the First Church of Christ.

Members of 12 district Boy Scout troops observed the 26th anniversary of the movement with special events.

TWENTY YEARS AGO — Pat Scarbino was named commander of the newly - organized Veterans of Foreign Wars post in Wellsville.

The city treasury received $793 of the $881 collected in fines, costs and forfeitures during January.

TEN YEARS AGO — Mrs. Lillian Wagner was elected Church School superintendent of the Georgetown Methodist Church.

Wellsville Council was asked to appropriate $2,000 for Civil Defense work within the city.

This 'n That

Motels are not really a modern innovation. The first motels were built for travelers by imperial decree along the thousands of miles of roads in the ancient Roman empire. Spaced a day's walk apart, the "mansiones," as they were called, were all located near public baths so that dusty travelers could wash up before retiring. But, just as today, those citizens with extra cash could have the luxury of a room with private bath.

Eagles usually return to their same nests year after year, rebuilding and adding material to their "homes." One famous nest in Ohio was observed to serve as an eagle home for 36 years, attaining measurements of 12 feet in depth and 8½ feet across its top. And when it finally fell to the ground, it was estimated to contain at least two tons of sticks.

Throughout the history of the U.S., the proportion of church membership to the total population has mounted steadily. In 1850, only 16 per cent of the population registered as church members. Today the percentage is about 65.

City Continues Check Into Fire Alarm Boxes

Fire alarm boxes in the West End and North Side were to be checked today as part of a study of the city's 53-year-old Gamewell alarm system relative to recommendations for replacement.

C. H. Randle and M. R. Guest of the Pittsburgh office of Bliss-Gamewell, Inc., successor to the company which installed the original system in 1913, along with Acting Chief Alfred Van Dyne surveyed boxes in the East End Tuesday.

Only three boxes can be used at all, Van Dyne said. The remainder were found to be obsolete and not worth repairing, he explained.

The study and recommendations for a new system will be furnished to the city without charge. Randle explained in a conference last week with Safety-Service Director Robert E. Vodrey and fire department officers.

Because so many boxes are not operate, firemen repeatedly have urged householders to turn in alarms by phone. The so-called "east" system serving the East End and part of the North Side is not operating at all, firemen pointed out.

Because of the city's growth since the system was installed in 1913, some sections such as North Side have comparatively few alarm boxes and the newer residential areas have none, firemen said.

Following last week's conference, Vodrey warned it is possible fire insurance rates could be increased unless a satisfactory replacement is made.

Brooke County Park Bill Goes To Smith

Chamber Board Sets Dinner With Leaders Of Committees

The Board of Trustees of the Chamber of Commerce agreed Tuesday afternoon to hold its traditional semi-annual dinner meeting with committee chairmen to review the progress on recent projects and lay plans for future activities.

The session, sometimes called a "cabinet meeting," will be held at 6 p. m. on Tuesday, March 8. It will fall on the usual date for the board's monthly meeting. However, the trustees usually convene at 4 p.m. in the Chamber office.

The twice yearly night dinner meetings were started several years ago as a way of establishing a closer working relationship between the board and the committee leaders. The dinners usually are held in March and September.

The board also approved tentative plans yesterday for a spring membership dinner meeting, which probably will be held in late April. The banquet and meeting committee will be in charge. Details of the program and other arrangements will be announced later.

E. R. Chandler, executive manager, reported on the annual mid-winter management conference of the Chamber of Commerce Executives of Ohio, which he attended last week at Columbus. The theme was "What's Ahead for 1970."

The discussions covered government operations, taxation and new laws. State highway Department representatives discussed road projects that are contemplated in the next few years.

The board was advised that National Chamber of Commerce Week will be observed April 3-9 and that the local Chamber will join in the program.

Committee reports were presented for: East Liverpool Merchants Association, Community Improvement Corp. and the civic affairs, safety and membership committees.

Ralph Finley reported on CIC activities and Don Eckert discussed the civic affairs committee's work.

Judge Louis Tobin, a member of the board, reported on progress of a movement for establishment of a Columbiana County Community College.

The board also discussed new developments in a continuing quest for a site for a new county airport. Reports were presented for delegations that represented the local Chamber at the annual dinners of the Weirton and Steubenville Chambers.

Ohio Indicates Gains In Battle Against TB

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Decline in state subsidy payments indicates "substantial gains" in the battle against tuberculosis, State Auditor Roger Cloud said today.

Cloud said his office records show that subsidy payments to tuberculosis hospitals and county commissioners in 19 counties amounted to $610,434 for the current fiscal year to date.

If the rate continues for the balance of the fiscal year, state distributions will be down more than $100,000 from the actual subsidy payments of $1,155,881 during fiscal 1965, Cloud said.

Under existing law, the state is obligated to pay any county, district or municipal tuberculosis facility a per diem allowance of $2.50 per patient.

Bonds Issued By Churches Are Snarled In Litigation

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Bonds issued by churches in 11 states to finance building projects are snarled in litigation claiming the churches failed to receive the money.

Counsel for the churches has filed suit for $2.3 million against six men and two business firms.

One result of the court move is a temporary injunction granted by U. S. Dist. Judge Sarah T. Hughes last Friday forbidding Homestead Fire Insurance Co. of Pine Bluff, Ark., to dispose of any such bonds in its possession.

Among the churches taking part in the suit is the Walnut Avenue Church of Christ in Canton, Ohio.

Spokesmen say the churches have issued bonds totaling $5.3 million since last June and about $3 million have been recalled.

Legal papers state the churches delivered bearer bonds to Glenn U. Paden of Johnson County, Tex., with the understanding he would find buyers, and that Paden passed the bonds on to the other defendants.

No payment has been forthcoming for the bonds as promised, the suit alleges.

In answer to the suit, Paden has offered to surrender all his assets except exempted property in payment of the church claims against him. In effect, if the court upholds the church claims, this would leave other defendants liable for the rest of the money.

State OKs U.S. Grant For School District

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State approval has been given a $156,989 federal grant to Lucas County's Spencer-Sharples Local School District. The one-year project awaits revision of an in-service teacher training program to satisfy federal requirements.

Rhodes Hands Republicans Ammunition For Campaigns

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes, in what he termed an "up-to-the minute, compact condition of the state report, has furnished Republican candidates an itemized magazine of ammunition for their 1966 campaigns in Ohio.

Rhodes listed 46 accomplishments that he says have marked the three years of his administration—all after "we inherited a bankrupt state," he said in a speech at a regional printing industry dinner Tuesday night.

It's a good bet the text of the governor's talk will be available to GOP candidates statewide.

Rhodes declared:

"We inherited a bankrupt state; we were being sued for unpaid bills; the teachers retirement system was in default; the Liquor Department was defunct; the Welfare Department was $14 million in the red; state-owned institutions were crumbling; fewer people had jobs in January 1963 than in 1957.

"We had the highest number of people on relief of any state.

"This is what we did about it in three years: balanced the budget. Paid off all our bills. Laid off 4,000 unnecessary employes. Saved $30 million through Little Hoover Commission recommendations. Had a $17 million surplus in the general fund without increasing taxes."

Rhodes went on to detail what he called the accomplishments including improvements in education, mental health, natural resources, highways and industrial development.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Supreme Court received appeals Tuesday on behalf of three Cleveland youths convicted in a June 12, 1963, playground attack on a boy and his 15-year-old girl friend in Cleveland.

Coed's Dope Case Set For Jury Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The case of a 21-year-old Ohio State University coed who was charged with two narcotics violations in the recent police crackdown on drugs in January, is to be presented to the Franklin County Grand Jury.

Capt. Herman Beck, head of the police vice squad, said that step is planned in the case of Carol Lynn Stecher of Smithtown, N. Y.

His move followed a mixup in Municipal Court Tuesday when the city prosecutor's office failed to summon a witness in the case.

Temporarily, police said they were forced to drop a charge of illegal sale of narcotics against the coed. A second charge of illegal possession of narcotics against her was dismissed by Judge Fred L. Donally because of insufficient evidence.

However, four other persons were bound to the grand jury in the court proceedings. They were John T. Drake, 25, charged with illegal possession of narcotics; Harry David Shea, 25, charged with possession and conspiracy to violate the narcotics act; Gary Holden Flanders, 26, possession to violate the narcotics act, and Sylvia A. Mills, 22, possession and conspiracy.

OSU To Begin Hunt For Journalism Head

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University is about ready to begin interviews to select a new director for the university's School of Journalism, Dean J. Osborne Fuller of the arts college said today.

Fuller said he has received a report from a special committee named to search for prospects but that "it would be unfortunate if the names were to be made public."

Before the interviews begin, Fuller said the special faculty committee will have to reorganize and select a new chairman to replace Paul Barton, acting director of the journalism school.

Barton resigned from the selection committee after he was nominated for the directorship to succeed the late George Kienzle.

CUYAHOGA FALLS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Farm Bureau Federation will urge passage of the Dirksen amendment on reapportionment of state legislatures as part of its 1966 action program, says Executive Vice President D. R. Stanfield.

Stanfield told a Northeast Regional leadership conference here Tuesday that federation spokesmen from 20 districts will go to Washington March 14-16 to confer with Ohio members of Congress on farm issues.

States should stand pat with the approximately 200,000 troops it now has in South Viet Nam was challenged quickly by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. He said at a New York news conference that Gavin seemed to be urging the consolidation of U. S. troops in enclaves.

McNamara added: "While I don't believe we would be defeated in the narrow sense of the terms, it is almost certain to enable the Viet Cong to roam the countryside, subject the people not now under their control to their control, achieve the full destruction of the government and ultimately lead to the overthrow of the government and thereby lead to the defeat of the South Vietnamese military force."

Midland Sets Stage For Showdown With Monaca Friday

Leopards Wallop Hopewell, 68-30

By JOHN COMO
Review Sports Writer

Midland displayed its old-time power in trouncing visiting Hopewell, 68-30, Tuesday night, then set its sights on Section 8 leader Monaca, which will bring a 7-0 record to Lincoln High Friday.

The Leopards gave notice that they hope to regain their prestige in section competition and are out to dethrone the Indians and gain a tie for the top spot. Both teams have three games remaining and a Midland win Friday could set the stage for a playoff.

Monaca is riding the crest of a 16-game winning streak and sports a 17-1 mark. Midland can repay two debts by avenging a 39-28 loss suffered at Monaca and settling with the Indians for stopping a 32 - game section streak it owned.

BY BREEZING past Hopewell, the Leopards raised their league slate to 6-1, while the Vikings fell deeper into third place with a 4-3 mark.

Over all, Midland stands 14-5 and Hopewell 12-6.

A pressing defense ordered by Midland Coach Hank Kuzma of the Leopards had Hopewell on the run the entire game. The Vikings took just 38 shots, with 10 finding the mark.

MIDLAND added its best offensive effort of the season to match its defense with 27 of 60 shots hitting the mark for 45 per cent.

The contest started slowly, with Hopewell taking a 3-1 lead on the strength of charity tosses by John Milanovich and Ron Charles.

WITH 5:21 showing, John Williams of Midland connected for a 3-3 tie. Brent Lake provided a 5-3 lead and three straight goals to spark the Leopards into a 13-5 advantage at the end of the first period.

George Medich ended Clark's scoring spree at the 1:10 mark for the Vikings' lone goal in the period.

Al Palsa opened the second period with a long set that was countered by two free throws by Clark.

Medich scored a foul and a goal to bring Hopewell as close as it was to get to the high-flying Leopards, 15-10, with 3:47 left till halftime.

BRENT LAKE and Clark, who shared scoring honors with 18 each, paced the hosts to a 24-14 edge at the intermission. Clark tallied 11 and Lake 9 points in the first two periods.

Scoring balance paved the way to a 21-point third quarter as Sandy Martins, Rich Mahurt, Jeff Lake and Glenn Humbert found the range.

HOPEWELL was held to six points in the third as the Leopards forged to a 41-20 margin entering the final quarter.

The Leopards switched to a modified zone defense in the fourth quarter, with the guards pressing the ball handler. The switch stymied the Vikings even more than the pressing man-to-man employed throughout the first three periods and Midland completed the rout by pouring 27 points through the cords in the final eight minutes.

FORCED to shoot from the outside, the cold visitors marked just 10 points, with four coming at the free throw line.

Mahurt finished with a six-point fourth to join Brent Lake and Clark in double figures with 10 points.

Medich was Hopewell's top scorer with 8.

The Leopards outrebounded the Vikings, 28-21, with Clark grabbing 8 and Brent Lake 7 caroms.

Walt Ivkovich saved 8 missed shots for Hopewell.

THE HOSTS scored on 14 of 15 free throws, while Hopewell counted 10 of 16 charity tosses.

Midland hit consistently throughout the contest, chalking up 10 of 25 shots in the first half and following with 17 of 35 after the intermission.

The Midland reserves gained a 28-20 decision in the preliminary to sweep the night's action. Dave Vanlier paced the win with 9 points.

Behind Montgomery in the Westgate scoring were Tom Chambers and Dan Cunningham with 13 each while Jim Musuraca dropped in 12.

Rice Suffers 26th Straight Loss

Wichita Knocks Off No. 3 Loyola; Ninth-Ranked Nebraska Is Edged

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

It was an active night on the basketball market.

The Wheatshockers went up, the Cornhuskers went down and Rice was unchanged.

Wichita's Wheatshockers, nearly invincible at home, made a shambles of Chicago Loyola's No. 3 ranking by beating the Ramblers 92-84. It was the 11th straight victory at home for the Shockers who have won 31 of the last 32 regular season games in Wichita and 59 of 63 in the last five seasons.

Nebraska's ninth-ranked dropped an 85-81 overtime decision at Oklahoma City when the Chiefs' Jerry Lee Wells scored two baskets in the final three seconds of the extra period.

It was the same old story for Rice at Houston. The Owls hung on against Arkansas until the final three minutes when the Razorbacks pulled away for a 76-71 victory — Rice's 26th consecutive loss.

In Syracuse, the Orangemen romped past Cornell 120-85 with Dave Bing doing most of the damage. Bing, a 6-foot-3 senior, scored 39 points and had 25 rebounds and eight assists as Syracuse ran its record to 14-3.

In other major games, Detroit's Dorie Murrey led the Titans past touring St. Bonaventure 89-84. Boston College started slowly but broke away to a 101-80 victory over Massachusetts and Georgetown barely made it past Rutgers 76-73 in overtime.

Elsewhere, Utah walloped New Mexico State 131-94, Penn State scored 63 points in the second half and whipped Kent State 94-72, Georgia Tech hit 66 per cent of its first-half shots and rolled past Furman 110-68 and Texas edged Texas Christian 77-75.

Wichita got 25 points and 18 rebounds from Warren Armstrong and ended Chicago Loyola's winning streak at 14 games. Kelly Pete hit 19 for the Shockers, defending Missouri Valley conference champs, who now are 11-6.

Corky Bell had 26 points and Billy Smith 25 for the Ramblers, who suffered their second loss in 18 starts. The other setback came against Oklahoma City, which spent Tuesday hounding and finally beating Nebraska.

The Chiefs tied the score on Gary Gray's 30-footer with regulation time running out. But Nebraska opened a four-point bulge in the extra session before Wells rallied Oklahoma City.

The Cornhuskers held a 81-77 bulge but Wells hit from the side and Jim Ware, the country's leading rebounder, scored two foul shots for the tie.

Then Wells, who finished with 27 points, grabbed a jump ball and put Oklahoma City ahead 83-81 with three seconds remaining. He hit again after Nebraska lost the ball on the pass in.

Ken Venturi Bothered By Old Ailment

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Ken Venturi says he may have to pass up the $60,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament which begins Thursday because his hands are bothering him again.

Venturi, winner of this year's Lucky International at San Francisco, came off a practice round Tuesday complaining of cold hands caused by a circulatory ailment.

"Even with gloves, my hands hurt," said Venturi. "I'm colder here than I was in San Francisco. If it gets colder I may not be able to play."

More than one-half inch of rain fell in Phoenix during a 24-hour period which ended Tuesday and a blast of wintry weather has sent temperatures not much above freezing.

Cloudy skies were forecast for today's $2,500 pro-amateur prelude to the 72-hole tourney at the 6,765-yard, par 36-35—71 Phoenix Country Club course.

Braves Ordered By Court To Play Games In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mayor Ivan Allen says Georgians are ready to prove that "the Braves' move to Atlanta was the best thing that has happened to baseball since Ty Cobb."

Wisconsin officials fighting the National League baseball team's transfer out of Milwaukee undoubtedly disagree with the Atlanta mayor who says he no longer has any questions about where the Braves will play in 1966.

A ruling by Fulton Superior Court Judge Sam Phillips McKenzie Tuesday "ends for all time, so far as Atlanta and the Southeast are concerned, any questions about the future of the Atlanta Braves," Allen said.

McKenzie ordered the Braves to disregard a Wisconsin court order and comply with a 25-year contract which calls for them to play their home games in Atlanta.

"From here on, the success of the Braves and the success of Atlanta and the Southeast as a showplace for major league baseball is up to the people of Atlanta and Georgia," Allen said.

"I want the sports writers in Milwaukee and Chicago and New York who have been crying about the Milwaukee fans — who let the Braves down except when they won pennants — to come down here to our town and see real baseball fans cheering a real baseball team, season after season, never deserting them, win or lose," Allen said.

Wisconsin officials, contending that the Braves and the National League violated the state's antitrust laws, have filed suit against the team. A Wisconsin court last month ordered the Braves to prepare to play their games in Milwaukee in 1966.

McKenzie, in his ruling in Georgia Superior Court, said he was reluctant to pass an order "which might conflict with an order of a court of another sovereign state.

"This judicial reluctance cannot, however, justify this court's shirking, however distasteful, a duty imposed," Judge McKenzie said, and added that the Braves' contract with Atlanta is a "valid, binding, legal contract" regardless of court action taken in Wisconsin.

Williams Registers KO

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — One robin doesn't make a spring but heavyweight Cleveland Williams indicated in his comeback fight Tuesday night that he's none the worse for wear from being out of the game for 14 months with a gunshot wound.

Williams made his first start since an altercation with a Texas highway patrolman sent him to a hospital with a wound that was expected to end his boxing career.

He appeared as good as ever as he knocked out Ben Black of Chicago in the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Williams weighed 214, Black 233.

Williams was ranked No. 2 by the World Boxing Association when he was shot.

Dennis Hextall scored eight goals and registered 20 assists for North Dakota's hockey team last season. He is the son of former New York Ranger Bryan Hextall.

Pro Football Owners Step Into Hockey

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Reeves . . . Jerry Wolman . . . Art Rooney . . . Ralph Wilson . . . Jack Kent Cooke.

This is a hockey expanion meeting?

Each among those mentioned above is an owner or at least a part owner of an American professional football team while Cooke also is president of the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

Each, too, is included in a group seeking a franchise in the National Hockey League's planned second division.

The three - day expansion meetings conclude today with 13 groups from eight cities in the running for the six hockey franchises. The cost of each franchise is $2 million and the new division is expected to start operating in October 1967.

Reeves, owner of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, Wilson of the Buffalo Bills of the American League, and Cooke, part owner of the Washington Redskins of the NFL, head individual groups seeking a franchise for Los Angeles.

Wolman of the Eagles of the NFL is a minority stockholder of a Philadelphia hockey group while Rooney of the NFL's Steelers is among those representing Pittsburgh interests.

Most knowledgeable hockey people attending the expansion meetings expect Los Angeles and San Francisco-Oakland to be given the green light by the owners of the present big league hockey teams.

However, the owners will have to decide among five Los Angeles groups. Two delegations represent Pittsburgh while other cities in the running, each with a single franchise-seeking group, are Buffalo; Baltimore; Philadelphia; Vancouver, B.C., and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The present NHL teams are Montreal, Toronto, Boston, New York, Chicago and Detroit.

Pitcher Vernon Law Signs With Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vernon Law, winner of the Associated Press Comeback of the Year award in 1965, signed his 1966 contract Tuesday with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The veteran pitcher finished last season with a 17-9 mark and a 2.16 earned run average after losing his first five games.

Wings Recall Wall

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have recalled defenseman Bobby Wall of the Pittsburgh Hornets, who had scored 32 points in 45 games. Wall, recalled Tuesday, is the leading scorer among American Hockey League defensemen.

Cogdill's Remarks Cost Suspension

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time in their 31-year history the Detroit Lions have suspended a player.

Veteran end Gail Cogdill was given an indefinite suspension by the National Football League club Tuesday for remarks he reportedly made about the club's head coach, Harry Gilmer, its management and about other players on the team.

Gilmer, announcing the suspension in a two-paragraph statement backed by club owner William Clay Ford and General Manager Edwin Anderson, said, "After a thorough investigation of remarks publicly made by Cogdill at a meeting in Flint (Mich.) last Wednesday, the weight of the evidence is that he did make positive statements detrimental to the best interests of the Detroit Lions management, its coaches, some of its players in particular, and to professional football in general."

Gilmer said he took the action against Cogdill with regret.

The suspension was the first made by the Lions. Alex Karras, a Lions defensive tackle, was suspended in 1963, but his was a league and not a club suspension.

"I'm not going to say anything. I'll take care of this myself. I have nothing to say," Cogdill said after the announcement.

At a meeting of the Flint, Mich., Junior Women's Club, Cogdill reportedly said Gilmer "doesn't know how to handle men and he's not ready for a coaching job. If Gilmer comes back at all, he might be the only one who does."

The 6-foot-2, 190 pound end later denied making such statements, but Lions' officials ordered an investigation.

NFL officials in New York refused comment, saying it was a "club affair."

Pillar Out Of Match With Martins Ferry

Jerry Pillar, East Liverpool's undefeated 112-pound wrestler, will not participate in tonight's match at Martins Ferry due to "disciplinary reasons" Coach Dick Bryan, announced. Pillar may be reinstated for the Sectional wrestling tournament Bryan said.

Willie Mays Has Signed For $125,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A sports columnist has reported that Willie Mays already has signed a $125,000 contract that will make the San Francisco Giants' center fielder the highest-paid player in baseball history.

But club Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney says, "I think the report is a little premature. We'll have an announcement about that in a few days."

Jack Hanley, who writes for a series of northern California newspapers and travels with the Giants, wrote Tuesday that Mays had signed his contract the day before at Candlestick Park.

A $125,000 contract would represent a $20,000 raise for the National League's Most Valuable Player of 1965.

Ted Williams once was reported as receiving $125,000 for a season when he played for the Boston Red Sox.

"I suspect the $125,000 for Williams might be a little high," Feeney said last month. "But, regardless, Willie will probably top all figures."

The Giants make it a policy never to announce salary figures.

"Even with gloves, my hands hurt," said Venturi. "I'm colder here than I was in San Francisco. If it gets colder I may not be able to play."

More than one-half inch of rain fell in Phoenix during a 24-hour period which ended Tuesday and a blast of wintry weather has sent temperatures not much above freezing.

Cloudy skies were forecast for today's $2,500 pro-amateur prelude to the 72-hole tourney at the 6,765-yard, par 36-35—71 Phoenix Country Club course.

Cline's, Hull's Robinson's Win In YMCA League

Cline's, Hull's and Robinson's registered victories Tuesday night in the YMCA - Member League.

Cline's scored a 53-49 victory over Burke's with Wayne Cline scoring 17 points to lead the way. Art Thomas fired in 15 points in a losing effort.

Hull's picked up a 43-37 win over Forzano's with Ron Deering's 17 points taking honors. Jim Potts took game honors with 22 markers.

Robinson's finished on top, 41-34 over Green's with Ted Robinson claiming top honors for the night by pouring in 25 points. Veteran Jack Green, nearing retirement, found the range for 18 points in a losing cause.

Cline's leads the league with two straight victories.

Braves Ordered By Court To Play Games In Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Mayor Ivan Allen says Georgians are ready to prove that "the Braves' move to Atlanta was the best thing that has happened to baseball since Ty Cobb."

Wisconsin officials fighting the National League baseball team's transfer out of Milwaukee undoubtedly disagree with the Atlanta mayor who says he no longer has any questions about where the Braves will play in 1966.

A ruling by Fulton Superior Court Judge Sam Phillips McKenzie Tuesday "ends for all time, so far as Atlanta and the Southeast are concerned, any questions about the future of the Atlanta Braves," Allen said.

McKenzie ordered the Braves to disregard a Wisconsin court order and comply with a 25-year contract which calls for them to play their home games in Atlanta.

"From here on, the success of the Braves and the success of Atlanta and the Southeast as a showplace for major league baseball is up to the people of Atlanta and Georgia," Allen said.

"I want the sports writers in Milwaukee and Chicago and New York who have been crying about the Milwaukee fans — who let the Braves down except when they won pennants — to come down here to our town and see real baseball fans cheering a real baseball team, season after season, never deserting them, win or lose," Allen said.

Wisconsin officials, contending that the Braves and the National League violated the state's antitrust laws, have filed suit against the team. A Wisconsin court last month ordered the Braves to prepare to play their games in Milwaukee in 1966.

McKenzie, in his ruling in Georgia Superior Court, said he was reluctant to pass an order "which might conflict with an order of a court of another sovereign state.

"This judicial reluctance cannot, however, justify this court's shirking, however distasteful, a duty imposed," Judge McKenzie said, and added that the Braves' contract with Atlanta is a "valid, binding, legal contract" regardless of court action taken in Wisconsin.

Williams Registers KO

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — One robin doesn't make a spring but heavyweight Cleveland Williams indicated in his comeback fight Tuesday night that he's none the worse for wear from being out of the game for 14 months with a gunshot wound.

Williams made his first start since an altercation with a Texas highway patrolman sent him to a hospital with a wound that was expected to end his boxing career.

He appeared as good as ever as he knocked out Ben Black of Chicago in the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder.

Williams weighed 214. Black 233.

Williams was ranked No. 2 by the World Boxing Association when he was shot.

Dennis Hextall scored eight goals and registered 20 assists for North Dakota's hockey team last season. He is the son of former New York Ranger Bryan Hextall.

Pro Football Owners Step Into Hockey

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Reeves ... Jerry Wolman ... Art Rooney ... Ralph Wilson ... Jack Kent Cooke.

This is a hockey expanion meeting?

Each among those mentioned above is an owner or at least a part owner of an American professional football team while Cooke also is president of the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

Each, too, is included in a group seeking a franchise in the National Hockey League's planned second division.

The three - day expansion meetings conclude today with 13 groups from eight cities in the running for the six hockey franchises. The cost of each franchise is $2 million and the new division is expected to start operating in October 1967.

Reeves, owner of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League, Wilson of the Buffalo Bills of the American League, and Cooke, part owner of the Washington Redskins of the NFL, head individual groups seeking a franchise for Los Angeles.

Wolman of the Eagles of the NFL is a minority stockholder of a Philadelphia hockey group while Rooney of the NFL's Steelers is among those representing Pittsburgh interests.

Most knowledgeable hockey people attending the expansion meetings expect Los Angeles and San Francisco-Oakland to be given the green light by the owners of the present big league hockey teams.

However, the owners will have to decide among five Los Angeles groups. Two delegations represent Pittsburgh while other cities in the running, each with a single franchise-seeking group, are Buffalo; Baltimore; Philadelphia; Vancouver, B.C., and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

The present NHL teams are Montreal, Toronto, Boston, New York, Chicago and Detroit.

Pitcher Vernon Law Signs With Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Vernon Law, winner of the Associated Press Comeback of the Year award in 1965, signed his 1966 contract Tuesday with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The veteran pitcher finished last season with a 17-9 mark and a 2.16 earned run average after losing his first five games.

Wings Recall Wall

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League have recalled defenseman Bobby Wall of the Pittsburgh Hornets, who had scored 32 points in 45 games. Wall, recalled Tuesday, is the leading scorer among American Hockey League defensemen.

Cogdill's Remarks Cost Suspension

DETROIT (AP) — For the first time in their 31-year history the Detroit Lions have suspended a player.

Veteran end Gail Cogdill was given an indefinite suspension by the National Football League club Tuesday for remarks he reportedly made about the club's head coach, Harry Gilmer, its management and about other players on the team.

Gilmer, announcing the suspension in a two-paragraph statement backed by club owner William Clay Ford and General Manager Edwin Anderson, said, "After a thorough investigation of remarks publicly made by Cogdill at a meeting in Flint (Mich.) last Wednesday, the weight of the evidence is that he did make positive statements detrimental to the best interests of the Detroit Lions management, its coaches, some of its players in particular, and to professional football in general."

Gilmer said he took the action against Cogdill with regret.

The suspension was the first made by the Lions. Alex Karras, a Lions defensive tackle, was suspended in 1963, but his was a league and not a club suspension.

"I'm not going to say anything. I'll take care of this myself. I have nothing to say," Cogdill said after the announcement.

At a meeting of the Flint, Mich., Junior Women's Club, Cogdill reportedly said Gilmer "doesn't know how to handle men and he's not ready for a coaching job. If Gilmer comes back at all, he might be the only one who does."

The 6-foot-2, 190 pound end later denied making such statements, but Lions' officials ordered an investigation.

NFL officials in New York refused comment, saying it was a "club affair."

Pillar Out Of Match With Martins Ferry

Jerry Pillar, East Liverpool's undefeated 112-pound wrestler, will not participate in tonight's match at Martins Ferry due to "disciplinary reasons" Coach Dick Bryan, announced. Pillar may be reinstated for the Sectional wrestling tournament Bryan said.

Willie Mays Has Signed For $125,000

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A sports columnist has reported that Willie Mays already has signed a $125,000 contract that will make the San Francisco Giants' center fielder the highest-paid player in baseball history.

But club Vice President Charles (Chub) Feeney says, "I think the report is a little premature. We'll have an announcement about that in a few days."

Jack Hanley, who writes for a series of northern California newspapers and travels with the Giants, wrote Tuesday that Mays had signed his contract the day before at Candlestick Park.

A $125,000 contract would represent a $20,000 raise for the National League's Most Valuable Player of 1965.

Ted Williams once was reported as receiving $125,000 for a season when he played for the Boston Red Sox.

"I suspect the $125,000 for Williams might be a little high," Feeney said last month. "But, regardless, Willie will probably top all figures."

The Giants make it a policy never to announce salary figures.

Three More Players Signed By Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Indians today announced the signing of three more players, making a total of 27 under contract for the 1966 season.

The trio, all pitchers, include right-handers Steve Hargan and Gary Boyd and southpaw Alan Closter.

Hargan, 23, had a 4-3 record after coming to the Indians last August. Boyd and Closter have only minor league experience.

Yankees Sign Six More For 1966 Season

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If the New York Yankees don't watch out they won't have a single holdout to talk about during spring training.

Mickey Mantle is the only big name outside the net and that is only because he is at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., recuperating from shoulder surgery.

When Mick is well enough to report to the club, hopefully during the first week of March at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., he will agree to the usual $100,000.

Ralph Houk, the general manager, left for Florida today. Before he departed he welcomed into the fold Jim Bouton, Joe Pepitone, Al Downing, Hector Lopez, Bill Stafford and Jack Cullen. The six signings were announced Tuesday at a mass news conference held in ex-Yank Phil Linz' restaurant.

It seems it was easier to deal with a team that finished sixth.

"Most of the unsigned are kids," said Houk. "Well, Steve Hamilton hasn't signed. Yes, you could say there is a difference of opinion between us. But I wouldn't call it a problem."

Royals Trail Boston By 2½

By The Associated Press

The New York Knickerbockers benched Wilt Chamberlain.

It wasn't a decision by the Knicks but rather their play that caused Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes to lift his star in the fourth quarter Tuesday night.

The Knicks were leading 125-102 with just over six minutes left when Chamberlain was summoned to the bench — one of the rare times he has been taken out of a game for a rest. The final score was 136-123.

The game was part of a National Basketball Association doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden, which saw the San Francisco Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons 113-103 in the opener.

In the only other game, the Cincinnati Royals defeated the Baltimore Bullets 128-113 and moved into second place in the Eastern Division, one-half game ahead of the 76ers and 2½ behind the Boston Celtics.

Despite Chamberlain's 38 points, the Warriors just couldn't cope with the tremendous shooting of the Knicks, who defeated Philadelphia for the second consecutive time and ran their winning streak to four in a row — the first time they have won that many straight since December 1962.

Things were nip and tuck at Cincinnati for three periods, with the home team leading only 92-90, but the Royals broke it open in the final quarter be-Adrian Smith.

Penn State's 2nd Half Rally Sinks Kent Five

By The Associated Press

Kent State, out of the Mid-American Conference basketball running which moves into its crucial stages this week, tried to salvage some outside prestige Tuesday night but withered before a 63-point Penn State second half and lost to the Nittany Lions 94-72.

Otterbein, very much in the Ohio Conference title picture, belted league foe Marietta 70-57.

In the MAC, Ohio University visits Miami and Toledo invades Western Michigan tonight, then the teams swap opponents Saturday. Miami is 7-1 and runner-up Toledo 4-1 heading into the latter portion of their 12-game MAC round-robins.

In the Ohio Conference, Otterbein now is 9-3 with two games left and awaits the outcome of tonight's Wooster (10-2) at Mount Union (7-2) and Oberlin at Akron (8-2) tussles which will shuffle the top three.

In other Ohio college activity Tuesday night, Wittenberg beat Capital 78-65 in the OC, Al Knott's layup gave Cedarville a 56-55 nod over Ashland in the Mid-Ohio Conference, John Carroll was victimized by Presidents' Conference leader Bethany 93-77, and Malone ripped Fort Wayne Bible 101-78.

Kent State had a 32-31 halftime lead over a Penn State team that has lost only four times in 16 starts but Jeff Pearsson and Carver Clinton combined to tear the Golden Flashes apart after rest time. Persson wound up with 30 points, Clinton 24, and the Flashes wound up with a 6-12 record.

Don Carlos of Otterbein ruined Marietta with 29 points. Mike Duermit's 21 led Wittenberg.

Australians Take Heed, Women Always Right

NEW YORK (AP) — Is it proper for a girl to wear Bermuda shorts—instead of a skirt—on the golf course?

It most certainly is, a cross section of American feminity insisted today, rising to the defense of a well-known U.S. woman an tournament golfer forbidden to wear shorts in an exhibition match in Sydney, Australia.

"It's ridiculously old-fashioned," Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., fumed when she got the word from the Ladies Golf Union. "I think the Australians are going to have to learn to get with it.

"Besides, I have 40 pairs of shorts in my wardrobe."

Sports and show personalties rallied to Clifford Ann's side, contending the ban violates women's rights.

"Women golfers have been dressing like dowdy housewives for years," said Gussie Moran of Los Angeles, who shocked Wimbledon tennis galleries more than a decade ago by appearing on the center court in tight-fitting lace panties. "Since I've been old enough to wear lipstick, I've considered pants safer than skirts."

Mrs. Hayes Alan Jenkins, the former Carol Heiss, the pretty onetime world figure skating queen, said she thought shorts were perfectly all right for any sports appearance.

"It's all a matter of how they're cut," Carol added. "Anything you wear can be in bad taste if it's cut too tight or shows too much. I think it's all a question of how they're cut."

"A skirt can be more embarrassing to a woman than a double bogey," Clifford Ann said.

"It becomes very difficult to stoop over in a skirt to place the tee. A skirt can also be rather hard to control on a windy day."

Joseph C. Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, said his organization was faced with a similar problem in 1952 when lady golfers protested against a ban on shorts.

"We examined the matter thoroughly from all angles," Dey said. "Finally, we made the obvious move — we submitted to the women's preference."

Jayne Mansfield, currently appearing at a local night club (Latin Quarter) in little more than eye shadow, called the Australian ruling "utterly primitive."

"The next thing you know," the bosomy actress purred, "they'll be taking the word 'love' out of golf."

"Tennis," whispered an associate.

"I mean tennis, darling," Jane said. "Oh, that spoils it, doesn't it?"

Not necessarily.

State To Give Assistance To New Stadium

CINCINNATI (AP)—With assurance of financial assistance from the state, the city's Stadium Steering Committee is now seeking help from the federal government to build the proposed riverfront stadium.

Gov. James A. Rhodes told a delegation Tuesday that the state would help in building roads and possibly an Ohio River marina at Yeatsman's Cove, the spot where Cincinnati was founded.

Fred Moor, director of Ohio's Natural Resources Department, and Mel Rebholz, head of the State Parks Division, are to visit the area today.

City Councilman Eugne Ruehlman, one of those who visited with Rhodes in Columbus, asked that the area be declared a state park. But, he said, the group was told that if the stadium is built on state land, it would be illegal to sell alcoholic beverages there.

Rhodes, however, said Morr and Rebholz are to tour the area and "explore every possibility" for assistance.

A stadium committee delegation is to go to Washington Thursday to see if federal aid can be secured for the stadium.

The riverfront already is included in an urban renewal project, and officials want to see if it also would take in the stadium.

Rep. Donald D. Clancy of Cincinnati said federal officials have promised to expedite the city's request to include a stadium.

Clay-Terrell To Meet For Title On March 29

CHICAGO (AP) — Everything has been guaranteed for the world heavyweight boxing championship between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell in Chicago's International Amphitheatre March 29.

The fight itself was guaranteed when the Illinois State Athletic Commission formally approved the contract and renewed Clay's Illinois boxing license.

The billing of "the fight for the undisputed world heavyweight boxing championship" was guaranteed since Clay is generally recognized as the champion and Terrell is the titleholder as far as the World Boxing Association is concerned.

Clay was guaranteed $450,000 from all facets of the 15-round bout.

Terrell will receive 20 per cent across the board with a $50,000 guarantee from the live gate, plus $12,500 training expenses and $100,000 minimum from closed-circuit television.

The Black Muslims, an organization to which Clay belongs, were guaranteed something since the closed-circuit television showing is under the auspices of Main Bout, Inc., a five-member group including two representatives of the Black Muslims.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission was guaranteed little peace because no sooner had the contracts been signed before Clay wondered if he would get a "fair shake."

Commissioner Joe Triner assured Clay, "There is no such thing as a home-town decision in Chicago—if Muhammad Ali wins, he'll get the decision; if Terrell wins, he'll get the decision."

Yankees Sign Six More For 1966 Season

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If the New York Yankees don't watch out they won't have a single holdout to talk about during spring training.

Mickey Mantle is the only big name outside the net and that is only because he is at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., recuperating from shoulder surgery.

When Mick is well enough to report to the club, hopefully during the first week of March at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., he will agree to the usual $100,000.

Ralph Houk, the general manager, left for Florida today. Before he departed he welcomed into the fold Jim Bouton, Joe Pepitone, Al Downing, Hector Lopez, Bill Stafford and Jack Cullen. The six signings were announced Tuesday at a mass news conference held in ex-Yank Phil Linz' restaurant.

It seems it was easier to deal with a team that finished sixth.

"Most of the unsigned are kids," said Houk. "Well, Steve Hamilton hasn't signed. Yes, you could say there is a difference of opinion between us. But I wouldn't call it a problem."

Royals Trail Boston By 2½

By The Associated Press

The New York Knickerbockers benched Wilt Chamberlain.

It wasn't a decision by the Knicks but rather their play that caused Philadelphia Coach Dolph Schayes to lift his star in the fourth quarter Tuesday night.

The Knicks were leading 125-102 with just over six minutes left when Chamberlain was summoned to the bench — one of the rare times he has been taken out of a game for a rest. The final score was 136-123.

The game was part of a National Basketball Association doubleheader at New York's Madison Square Garden, which saw the San Francisco Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons 113-103 in the opener.

In the only other game, the Cincinnati Royals defeated the Baltimore Bullets 128-113 and moved into second place in the Eastern Division, one-half game ahead of the 76ers and 2½ behind the Boston Celtics.

Despite Chamberlain's 38 points, the Warriors just couldn't cope with the tremendous shooting of the Knicks, who defeated Philadelphia for the second consecutive time and ran their winning streak to four in a row — the first time they have won that many straight since December 1962.

Things were nip and tuck at Cincinnati for three periods, with the home team leading only 92-90, but the Royals broke it open in the final quarter be-Adrian Smith.

Penn State's 2nd Half Rally Sinks Kent Five

By The Associated Press

Kent State, out of the Mid-American Conference basketball running which moves into its crucial stages this week, tried to salvage some outside prestige Tuesday night but withered before a 63-point Penn State second half and lost to the Nittany Lions 94-72.

Otterbein, very much in the Ohio Conference title picture, belted league foe Marietta 70-57.

In the MAC, Ohio University visits Miami and Toledo invades Western Michigan tonight, then the teams swap opponents Saturday. Miami is 7-1 and runner-up Toledo 4-1 heading into the latter portion of their 12-game MAC round-robins.

In the Ohio Conference, Otterbein now is 9-3 with two games left and awaits the outcome of tonight's Wooster (10-2) at Mount Union (7-2) and Oberlin at Akron (8-2) tussles which will shuffle the top three.

In other Ohio college activity Tuesday night, Wittenberg beat Capital 78-65 in the OC, Al Knott's layup gave Cedarville a 56-55 nod over Ashland in the Mid-Ohio Conference, John Carroll was victimized by Presidents' Conference leader Bethany 93-77, and Malone ripped Fort Wayne Bible 101-78.

Kent State had a 32-31 halftime lead over a Penn State team that has lost only four times in 16 starts but Jeff Pearsson and Carver Clinton combined to tear the Golden Flashes apart after rest time. Persson wound up with 30 points, Clinton 24, and the Flashes wound up with a 6-12 record.

Don Carlos of Otterbein ruined Marietta with 29 points. Mike Duermit's 21 led Wittenberg.

Australians Take Heed, Women Always Right

NEW YORK (AP) — Is it proper for a girl to wear Bermuda shorts—instead of a skirt—on the golf course?

It most certainly is, a cross section of American feminity insisted today, rising to the defense of a well-known U.S. woman tournament golfer forbidden to wear shorts in an exhibition match in Sydney, Australia.

"It's ridiculously old-fashioned," Clifford Ann Creed of Alexandria, La., fumed when she got the word from the Ladies Golf Union. "I think the Australians are going to have to learn to get with it.

"Besides, I have 40 pairs of shorts in my wardrobe."

Sports and show personalties rallied to Clifford Ann's side, contending the ban violates women's rights.

"Women golfers have been dressing like dowdy housewives for years," said Gussie Moran of Los Angeles, who shocked Wimbledon tennis galleries more than a decade ago by appearing on the center court in tight-fitting lace panties. "Since I've been old enough to wear lipstick, I've considered pants safer than skirts."

Mrs. Hayes Alan Jenkins, the former Carol Heiss, the pretty onetime world figure skating queen, said she thought shorts were perfectly all right for any sports appearance.

"It's all a matter of how they're cut," Carol added. "Anything you wear can be in bad taste if it's cut too tight or shows too much. I think it's all a question of how they're cut."

"A skirt can be more embarrassing to a woman than a double bogey," Clifford Ann said.

"It becomes very difficult to stoop over in a skirt to place the tee. A skirt can also be rather hard to control on a windy day."

Joseph C. Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, said his organization was faced with a similar problem in 1952 when lady golfers protested against a ban on shorts.

"We examined the matter thoroughly from all angles," Dey said. "Finally, we made the obvious move — we submitted to the women's preference."

Jayne Mansfield, currently appearing at a local night club (Latin Quarter) in little more than eye shadow, called the Australian ruling "utterly primitive."

"The next thing you know," the bosomy actress purred, "they'll be taking the word 'love' out of golf."

"Tennis," whispered an associate.

"I mean tennis, darling," Jane said. "Oh, that spoils it, doesn't it?"

Not necessarily.

State To Give Assistance To New Stadium

CINCINNATI (AP)—With assurance of financial assistance from the state, the city's Stadium Steering Committee is now seeking help from the federal government to build the proposed riverfront stadium.

Gov. James A. Rhodes told a delegation Tuesday that the state would help in building roads and possibly an Ohio River marina at Yeatsman's Cove, the spot where Cincinnati was founded.

Fred Moor, director of Ohio's Natural Resources Department, and Mel Rebholz, head of the State Parks Division, are to visit the area today.

City Councilman Eugne Ruehlman, one of those who visited with Rhodes in Columbus, asked that the area be declared a state park. But, he said, the group was told that if the stadium is built on state land, it would be illegal to sell alcoholic beverages there.

Rhodes, however, said Morr and Rebholz are to tour the area and "explore every possibility" for assistance.

A stadium committee delegation is to go to Washington Thursday to see if federal aid can be secured for the stadium.

The riverfront already is included in an urban renewal project, and officials want to see if it also would take in the stadium.

Rep. Donald D. Clancy of Cincinnati said federal officials have promised to expedite the city's request to include a stadium.

Clay-Terrell To Meet For Title On March 29

CHICAGO (AP) — Everything has been guaranteed for the world heavyweight boxing championship between Cassius Clay and Ernie Terrell in Chicago's International Amphitheatre March 29.

The fight itself was guaranteed when the Illinois State Athletic Commission formally approved the contract and renewed Clay's Illinois boxing license.

The billing of "the fight for the undisputed world heavyweight boxing championship" was guaranteed since Clay is generally recognized as the champion and Terrell is the titleholder as far as the World Boxing Association is concerned.

Clay was guaranteed $450,000 from all facets of the 15-round bout.

Terrell will receive 20 per cent across the board with a $50,000 guarantee from the live gate, plus $12,500 training expenses and $100,000 minimum from closed-circuit television.

The Black Muslims, an organization to which Clay belongs, were guaranteed something since the closed-circuit television showing is under the auspices of Main Bout, Inc., a five-member group including two representatives of the Black Muslims.

The Illinois State Athletic Commission was guaranteed little peace because no sooner had the contracts been signed before Clay wondered if he would get a "fair shake."

Commissioner Joe Triner assured Clay, "There is no such thing as a home-town decision in Chicago—if Muhammad Ali wins, he'll get the decision; if Terrell wins, he'll get the decision."

Cleveland Man Speaks

Rotary Briefed On Goals Of 'Junior Achievement'

The purposes and functions of Junior Acheivement, an economic education program for high school students, were outlined by Henry E. Heffner, regional vice president of Junior Achievement of Greater Cleveland, during the Rotary luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Travelers Hotel.

Heffner, a Rotarian, traced the development of the program since its inception at Springfield, Mass., in 1919. The basic purpose, he explained, is "to teach high school students to earn a better living and to learn about economic affairs as they relate to the world as a whole".

IN THE United States, Canada and six other nations, miniature corporations have been set up on patterns similar to those of actual organizations, thus giving the students an opportunity to understand the full meaning of private incentive and ownership by offering firsthand experience as workers, managers and investors.

Business and industrial firms are the prime movers of Junior Achievement activities, the speaker said. In addition, service clubs have been most helpful in introducing and developing the program in many communities, he explained.

During summer vacation periods, the students engage in actual business activities providing nominal compensation and during the school year weekly meetings are held in which films and talks are presented.

Heffner suggested the possibility of introducing Junior Achievement to the East Liverpool area. A first step, he said in conclusion, would be for a Rotary committee to visit neighboring organizations for formulating plans.

VISITING Rotarians at yesterday's meeting were Dave Schwerha, Jules Jacob and Lester Smith, all of Midland. Guests introduced included Ray DeNunzio, Baxter D. Green and Roy Wilson.

Al Babb, past president, was program chairman.

The Rev. Russell Mase gave the invocation.

E. R. Chandler, president, announced that a board of directors meeting will be held Thursday noon in the hotel dining-room.

Section Of Track Reopened In Derailment At Industry

Pennsylvania Railroad crews opened the eastbound tracks to 10-mile-hour traffic at 5:30 this morning after working through the night in clearing wreckage of a 16-car derailment near Industry Tuesday.

The derailment occurred at 10:10 a.m. as a 109-car freight was en route to Pitcairn, Pa. from Crestline, Ohio.

The cars jumped the westbound track just east of the overpass on Route 68, obstructing both lanes of traffic and pulling up 500 feet of track. The train had 83 loaded and 26 empty cars.

Gilbert Brittenbaugh, public relations assistant at the Pittsburgh office, said "there were no injuries and no estimate of damage is available yet." He said the crews will "continue working around the clock until both tracks are opened for traffic."

A three-man committee has been assigned to investigate the derailment.

Crews from the Conway Yards and Mingo Junction arrived at the scene early Tuesday afternoon.

Economists Debate Issue Of Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Front-rank economists debate today whether inflation can be headed off with the weapons President Johnson is using—short-term tax boosts and the voluntary wage-price guidelines.

Critics and defenders of administration policy were to be heard at an all-day "National Symposium on Inflation, Guideposts and Economic Policy," sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The inflation problem was spotlighted anew with the official announcement Tuesday that unemployment in January dropped to a nine-year low of 4 per cent. Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz predicted it will dip to 3½ per cent this year.

The increasing difficulty of maintaining price-wage stability as the economy nears full employment has been acknowledged by the President's Council of Economic Advisers. The council has insisted, however, that recent living-cost increases are not inflationary.

Ice Blamed For Crashes

Icy roads were blamed for two traffic mishaps this morning — one near Rogers and the other near Washingtonville — the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

James Ross, 52, of Youngstown was cited after his pickup truck, headed south, struck the rear of another pickup operated by Earl McCoy, 17, of New Waterford on Route 7, just south of Rogers at 8 a.m.

Officers said McCoy was halted waiting for a car to make a left turn and Ross' truck skidded sideways into the rear of the truck. He was charged with failure to stop in the assured clear distance.

Willard Edison Smith, 45, of Rogers R.D. 1 escaped injury when his pickup truck overturned on Route 14 about a half mile west of Washingtonville at 6:30 a.m.

Officers said a car operated by Mary Jones, 34, of Leetonia skidded off the icy pavement and halted, with part of the vehicle on the highway.

Smith, who was following, swerved to avoid the crash, and his truck rolled over the embankment.

Rotary Briefed On Goals Of 'Junior Achievement'

The purposes and functions of Junior Acheivement, an economic education program for high school students, were outlined by Henry E. Heffner, regional vice president of Junior Achievement of Greater Cleveland, during the Rotary luncheon meeting Tuesday at the Travelers Hotel.

Heffner, a Rotarian, traced the development of the program since its inception at Springfield, Mass., in 1919. The basic purpose, he explained, is "to teach high school students to earn a better living and to learn about economic affairs as they relate to the world as a whole".

IN THE United States, Canada and six other nations, miniature corporations have been set up on patterns similar to those of actual organizations, thus giving the students an opportunity to understand the full meaning of private incentive and ownership by offering firsthand experience as workers, managers and investors.

Business and industrial firms are the prime movers of Junior Achievement activities, the speaker said. In addition, service clubs have been most helpful in introducing and developing the program in many communities, he explained.

During summer vacation periods, the students engage in actual business activities providing nominal compensation and during the school year weekly meetings are held in which films and talks are presented.

Pitt As State-Related School Due Study Today

HARRISBURG (AP) — The state Council of Higher Education arranged to meet here today and among the items awaiting action was a proposal by the University of Pittsburgh to become a state-related institution.

Sen. Robert D. Fleming, R-Allegheny, said he expected the council to waste no time in giving the plan its approval and sending it on to the state Board of Education.

Fleming added that Gov. Scranton probably would call a special session of the General Assembly within two weeks to enact legislation giving Pitt the same status Temple University received last year.

Pitt officials met with legislative leaders of both parties on Monday and outlined the proposal. The university agreed to lower its tuition considerably in exchange for state aid.

"The consensus of the meeting was almost wholly favorable," said senate minority leader John H. Devlin, Pittsburgh Democrat. "Everybody recognizes that the state must have a fine school in western Pennsylvania and the sooner we can get this enacted the better for western Pennsylvania's educational needs."

Fleming, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, estimated the cost to the state at $18 million the first year and perhaps even higher in subsequent years.

Under the plan, tuition for both undergraduate and graduate students would be lowered from $1,400 to perhaps $450 a year. Fleming said the full tuition reduction may not be made the first year, but he said he believed it could be done eventually.

Pennsy Pike, Firm's Legal Dispute Ends

HARRISBURG (AP) — A 10-year-old legal dispute between the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and Manu-Mine Research and Development Co. of Reading has been terminated with a $6.5 million settlement.

Manu-Mine agreed to pay that amount to the commission Tuesday.

Judge R. Dixon Herman, who approved the settlement in Commonwealth Court, said the commission's original claim was for $11.3 million.

Manu-Mine filed several suits in 1956 totaling $5 million against the Turnpike Commission for work allegedly performed on the northeast extension and on tunnels of the main east-west leg.

The commission started a suit against Manu-Mine, Thomas J. Evans, Charles W. Stickler Jr., Nellie Stickler, Clayton A. Landside, Frederick G. McGavin and Guy H. Dalpe, seeking to prepevent them from disposing of Manu-Mine assets until the court could rule on the commission's counter damage suit for $11.3 million.

A series of suits and counter suits were filed in the intervening years, culminating in a meeting of opposing lawyers before Judge Herman. All parties agreed to discontinue pending litigation, Judge Herman said.

Boy Shot In Face By Playmate Claimed

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh schoolboy shot in the face with a gun he and a playmate found in the street died today in Mercy Hospital.

The victim was seven-year-old Michael Fenton.

Police said Fenton and Paul Jackowski, 7, both of Pittsburgh's Beechview section, found the gun Tuesday on the way home from school.

The .38-caliber revolver fired while in the hands of Jackowski, officers said.

Following the shooting, Jackowski ran to his home a block away and told his mother: "I just hurt Michael. He had blood on his face."

'Heart Hop' Planned

Anniversary Dance Set By Midland Youth Center

The 10th anniversary of the Midland Hi-Spot Youth Center will be observed at the annual "Heart Hop" Friday night from 9 to 1.

The event, following the basketball game at the high school, will feature a balloon shower, spot entertainment, record prizes for the "Lucky Heart" winners, a birthday cake and punch.

Special invitations have been sent to members of the Board of Education, Council, civic groups, parents and others, according to Mrs. William Spisak, director.

YOUTH DANCES had been held in the borough building in earlier years, but it was in 1956 that the Hi-Spot Center was organized to provide a regular program of supervised youth recreation in a room especially designed for youth activities.

The center's objectives are to provide Midland's young people —13 through 19—with wholesome surroundings for social meetings, with carefully - planned and supervised activities, to accommodate students after athletic contests and on other timely occasions and to work with church, school and civic groups to promote citizenship among the young people.

The center also seeks to encourage Midland students to enjoy local facilities.

Its slogan is "Fairness," embracing sincerity, loyalty and consideration at all times.

COUNCIL WAS urged to provide a youth center on the third floor of the Borough Building when the structure was remodeled and the new center was included in the project, with the mothers, headed by Mrs. Spisak, given the responsibility of supervision.

The key to the center was presented by Burgess Eli Corak at the opening Feb. 8, 1956. The success of the program is demonstrated by such peak attendances as 375.

The programs for the year include the "Back To School Hop" in September and other weekend sessions. Students have participated in the UNICEF campaign, "Toys For Tots" drive, provided holiday baskets for the needy, helped in the March of Dimes and Heart Fund campaigns and actively taken part in the Crippled Children's Easter drive, collecting $436 one tag day.

The center has won first prize in the Fourth of July program three times and second prize twice. Members have appeared on area television teen - age shows.

Various items of equipment and decorations have been contributed by the Crucible Steel Co., the Rotary Club and other groups.

A range, refrigerator, chairs, draperies and other items have been obtained by the center, and records and repairs are paid for through door receipts.

Free admission is granted students who volunteer services and special treats are provided football and basketball team members and cheerleaders at times. The high school choir is honored on the night of the annual concert.

MRS. SPISAK expressed gratitude on this anniversary to those who are now helping and to those who served in the past.

The adult committee of the center includes Mrs. Francis Shone, Mrs. Stephen Trbovich, Mrs. Leroy Turner, Mrs. Leslie Roach, Mrs. Thomas Farnan Jr., Mrs. Richard Bailey, Mrs. Harry Humbert, Mrs. Harry Alston and Mrs. Fred Sams.

The student committee includes Lynn Petrosky, Gloria McClain, Melanie Marciniak, Milana Viakley, Ellen Viakley, Cole Young, Tom Sams, Charles Komara and Jay Bradshaw.

Oppose Amendment

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of the congressmen testifying Tuesday against a proposed constitutional amendment to provide four-year House terms were Reps. Jackson E. Betts and Samuel L. Devine, Ohio Republicans. They were heard from at the House Judiciary Committee hearing on the proposal.

The first parking meter was installed in Oklahoma City 30 years ago (in 1935) as an experiment. From a modest start with 150 meters, the number today has grown to an estimated 1.8 million.

American Youth Quake

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Shaking Business With Dresses, Records, Etc.

By SALLY RYAN
AP Business News Writer

A youth quake is shaking American business with granny dresses, folk-rock records, transistor radios and smell - alike steadies.

With a collective $15 billion a year to spend, the nation's 4 million teen-agers have become the long-haired darlings of businessmen looking for big markets now and more later when the young people begin setting up homes of their own.

From Miami, Fla., to Bellingham, Wesh., from Bangor, Maine, to San Diego, Calif., teen-agers dress alike and dance alike.

They also buy alike — with a difference.

Their money doesn't go for rent and taxes, but for snacks, clothes, records, cars, cosmetics, dates, movies, contact lenses, guitars, skindiving equipment and a thousand other items.

"Clothes — that's where all my money goes," says Audrey Philps, 17, of Harlingen, Texas.

"I spend money for food primarily," said Alex Kliros, 16, of Atlanta, a strapping 6-footer. "I also spend it on shooting pool, going to the movies."

Audrey and Alex are two of the scores of teen-agers who were asked in an Associated Press nationwide survey what they do with their money.

Their answers are vital to the growing number of firms regearing production lines and sales efforts to the demands of the youth market.

As Bruce A. Gimbel, New York City department store president, put it: "We no longer keep up with the Joneses, we keep up with the young."

One Fifth Avenue department store — Lord & Taylor — reports its teen-age business had grown 200 per cent in the last 10 years, and a store official adds he expects it to grow another 25 per cent a year for the foreseeable future.

A swank Fifth Avenue store for women — Bergdorf-Goodman — opened a haven for teen-agers this month. Airlines offer them half-rate fares. Auto makers appeal to them with fastback cars. There are bar mitzvah pilgrimmages to Israel, summer skiing tours of Europe and camps for overweight girls or those worried about their social IQ's — "College will be a ball this fall".

The reasons are obvious.

Teen-aged girls spend $3,825,000,000 a year on clothes and $575 million more on shoes. They plucked the granny dress off the French Riviera and spread it coast to coast last summer, shifting lines throughout the garment industry. Now they are going for granny boots — laced up the front — granny purses and granny spectacles.

The girls spend $470 million a year on cosmetics, and sales of men's toiletries are soaring, spurred by young buyers.

One reason: instead of just exchanging pins or rings, young couples now wear the same cologne to become smell - alike steadies.

Teen-agers spend nearly $300 million a year on records, accounting for 80 per cent of the single-record sales. They switched from Elvis Presley to the Beatles and Sonny and Cher, and the record companies followed suit.

Sue Miller, 14, Monterey Park, Calif., spends half of her income on records.

"I have all the Beatle albums and the Rolling Stones," said a 16-year-old girl at Douglas Freeman High School in Richmond. "I have 106 albums and a stack of 45s."

Teen-agers listen to the radio an average of 2½ hours a day, and many walk down the street plugged in. Of the girls, 66.4 per cent own portable transistors.

Nearly half of the teen-agers go to the movies at least once a week. An independent movie maker, American-International Pictures, struck a bonanza with such films as "How to Stuff a Wild Bikini." Now they plan to attract teen-agers with "protest" movies.

Teen-agers, as nearly every father can confirm, are a boon to the automobile business. Of the girls, 2,241,000 drive and a half million own their own cars. The figures are even higher for boys.

A Denver automobile dealer says he is hiring several salesmen barely out of high school because "they speak the same jargon teen-agers do."

Teen-agers are likely to have a big influence on their parents' choice of cars and other items, from bacon to television sets.

"I'd been working on daddy for two years for a color TV," said Kathy Hodge, 16, Wichita, Kan. "We got it for Christmas."

Some teen-agers have their own charge accounts.

Bobbie West, 17, Tallahassee, Fla., has three accounts in her own name, but she is an exception.

Parents objected when a firm in Austin, Tex. mailed credit cards to high schoolers.

The Denver Retail Merchants Association said several stores reported efforts to encourage individual charge accounts for high school and college students met with failure: the students preferred to use their parents' accounts.

Nearly half of the girls who will be married this year will be teen-agers. One million girls, like President Johnson's daughter Luci, are engaged.

Teen-agers have replaced farmers as the economic backbone of the nation, Helen Nelson, California's consumer counsel, reports.

"It is a sobering thought to consider that the consumer market may be dominated by inexperienced family units," she said, issuing a booklet of advice.

At Westport High in Kansas City, Tom Wray, 17, is the father of a 3-month-old baby. His wife, 18, used to work, but now is home.

Wray attends high school three hours in the morning and works 60 hours a week parking cars. He earns $70 a week.

Crash Hurts Area Driver

A Hammondsville area woman was injured slightly when her car and a truck collided on a narrow township road north of Salineville Tuesday, the Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported.

Anna Smith, 20, of Hammondsville R. D. 1 was headed north on Township Rd. 768, a mile south of Salineville, and rounded a curve over the center line, the patrol said.

Theodore Thirion, 45, of Lisbon R.D. 2, headed south, pulled toward the side of the roadway to avoid a collision, but the 1958 coach hit the left rear wheels of the truck, officers said.

The woman received a bruised neck. Two passengers — Mrs. Lilly Smith, 47, of Hammondsville R. D. 2 and Robin Smith, 4, mother and sister of the driver —escaped injury.

The driver of the car was cited for driving left of center.

Lakes Iron Ore Fleets Slated To Hike Rates

CLEVELAND (AP)—One fleet has announced it will raise rates for carrying iron ore on the Great Lakes in spring, and other ore carriers are expected to do the same.

The Wilson Marine Transit Co. said Tuesday that the new rate on ore carrying from the head of the lakes to Lake Erie ports will be $1.95 a gross ton, compared to the $1.90 rate in effect since 1963.

Wilson said the rate boost was necessary to offset anticipated increases in labor and maintenance costs.

Training Parley Set Next Monday By 4-H Advisers

Miss Virginia Evans, assistant state 4-H leader, will speak to the group relative to working with 4-H club members. Following the general session, the youth leaders will be divided into four discussion groups.

The sessions and leaders are: "Setting Goals and Member Evaluation," Miss Evans; "4-H Adviser Teaching Methods," Miss Ann Overturf, Columbiana County home economics agent; "Working With Parents," Mrs. Beulah Converse, Mahoning County home economics agent, and "Awards and Recognition for Members," Robert Lewis, Columbiana County 4-H agent.

Governor Outlines Conditions

Scranton's Reapportion Plan Gets Consideration

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania legislative and political leaders and members of Congress are giving considerable thought to a recommendation by Gov. Scranton to reapportion the state's 27 Congressional districts prior to the 1966 elections.

Scranton summoned them into his office Tuesday and outlined the conditions under which he would call a special session of the General Assembly to realign the districts to conform with the U.S. Supreme Court's "equal population" decision.

He continued to insist that the politically divided legislature must first reach some kind of agreement before he would call a special session. He apparently is trying to avoid the same type of stalemate which developed last year when legislators tried unsuccessfully to reapportion their own districts.

Consequently, the state Supreme Court drew up a legislative reapportionment plan of its own, and, as was expected, it failed to satisfy many of the lawmakers.

Legislative leaders of both parties met separately and together after the one-hour session with the governor and spent as much time discussing prospects of trying to supersede the court plan as they did on the Congressional problem.

Decisions on both legislative and Congressional reapportionment probably won't be known until next Monday at the earliest —one day before the first date for filing nominating petitions for the May 17 primary.

This was the assessment of Senate Majority Leader Stanley G. Stroup, R-Bedford, and Senate Minority Leader John H. Devlin, D-Allegheny.

Devlin said the two congressmen who attended the governor's meeting—Republican John P. Saylor and Democrat Thomas Morgan—returned to Washington to discuss the situation.

The 27 congressmen in previous polls have favored a change in Philadelphia only, where a realignment of city wards makes congressional reapportionment there almost mandatory. The city has five districts.

19 Hospitalized After Train Hits Rear Of Another

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Forty-nine persons were taken to hospitals today after a one-car passenger train struck the rear of an empty nine-car passenger train at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station here.

Hospitals said most of the 49 would be released after treatment or examination.

Pennsylvania Railroad officials said they knew of 15 injured. Both trains were operated by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The collision occurred as a nine-car, self-propelled unit was about to pull away from the station.

It was struck from the rear by a one-car, self-propelled unit which carried 50 passengers from Philadelphia.

The standing train, which had not taken on passengers, was about to leave for New York when the accident happened shortly after 7 a.m. Several dozen passengers were on the station platform at the time of the accident.

Witnesses said all of the injured were in the one-car train from Philadelphia. Police said most of those taken to hospitals did not appear seriously hurt.

The accident occurred on a side track, off the main line, and through service was not disrupted.

Element Of Mystery

Hawaii Talks Described As Puzzling Conference

Frank Cormier, AP White House correspondent who was one of the newsmen covering the Honolulu meeting between President Johnson and South Vietnamese leaders, reviews some of the puzzling element of the conference.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's meeting in Honolulu with leaders of South Viet Nam was one of the more puzzling international conferences of recent years.

Despite a torrent of public and private pronouncements by its participants, the whole meeting retained an element of mystery.

The mid-Pacific parley was born, in fact, under puzzling circumstances. Johnson announced plans for it last Friday and left for Hawaii Saturday. All evidence at the conference site bore the earmarks of hasty preparation, at least so far as physical arrangements were concerned.

Item: only hours before the President's arrival, walls were torn open in his Waikiki Hotel suite — so air conditioning could be installed.

Johnson flew to Hawaii as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, dominated by critics of his Southeast Asia policy, was holding nationally televised hearings on the Viet Nam situation.

Some of the possible witnesses on the administration side went with him.

The White House insisted there was no connection between the conference and the hearings. Before leaving Washington, Johnson said the focus of the conference would be on planned efforts of the Saigon government to promote social and political reforms, with American aid. All top American officials at the meetings said this was the focal point.

Yet the conference ended with public attention fixed on other matters: possible intensification of the war and potential roadblocks to any moves toward a peaceful settlement.

In this particular, Johnson's plans may have gone awry.

When the Saigon officials arrived in Hawaii Sunday, the President welcomed them with remarks aimed at home front critics. He said Americans must stand and fight in South Viet Nam or face inevitable bloodshed elsewhere at unknown cost.

South Viet Nam's chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu, learned about Johnson's planned statement while en route to Honolulu. He scrapped his own remarks and prepared a new arrival speech in which he applauded—almost as if it were totally unexpected — Johnson's pledge of steadfastness.

At the outset, therefore, the emphasis shifted to some extent from "the works of peace" — a phrase Johnson used in discussing Saigon's reform plans — to military firmness.

The next day, briefing officers said the Saigon group, while talking enthusiastically about reforms, also told Johnson anti-Communist forces in South Viet Nam should be strengthened because, as they put it, that's the only language the Communists understand. And they said they would never compromise with communism, although compromise presumably would go hand in hand with any meaningful peace negotiations.

Johnson, in his response, again sought to emphasize the works of peace but included a strong pledge of military determination. Tuesday the apparent tug-of-war between the Americans and the South Vietnamese on matters of emphasis took on new dimensions. It almost seemed as if Johnson and the Saigon group were vying for headlines.

Unexpectedly, the President announced soon after dawn that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey would fly to Saigon to add emphasis to the promised reform programs.

Within 90 minutes, the two top officials of the Saigon government returned attention to their "hard line" and they held a previously scheduled news conference.

Said Chief of State Thieu and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky:

Saigon will not sit down at a conference table with representatives of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas, under any circumstances. The United States has said the Viet Cong would have no difficulty gaining representation at peace talks and Hanoi insists on such representation.

The South Vietnamese leaders again had their say. But Johnson got in the last word.

The President stopped in Los Angeles on his way back to Washington and, bidding Humphrey Godspeed on his mission, took advantage of his first opportunity this week to go on nationwide live television to again emphasize America's commitment to social as well as military progress in Viet Nam.

Non-Support Charges Dropped In City Court

Acting at the request of the complaining witness, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today dismissed an affidavit in which Frank Reed of 418 E. 4th St. was accused of failure to support his 18-month-old son.

The charge was filed by Reed's wife, Mrs. Sandra Reed of the same address. She requested the dismissal today.

Joseph Frabel, 39, of Chester Ave. is scheduled to appear before the judge Thursday at 9 a. m. on a non-support charge. Filed by Mrs. Louella Frable, it alleges he has failed to provide support since Jan. 1 for a child, 2.

'Crash Corner' Signs Designed For Safety

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A crash program to eliminate crash corners has been undertaken by the Dade Citizens Safety Council and the Metro Traffic Dept. Five intersections with high accident records have been marked with large "Crash Corner" signs with the word "Crash" spelled out in eye-catching red letters.

After motorists become sufficiently aware of the hazardous crossings to make the label a misnomer, the safety campaigners will move the signs to five more accident-prone areas.

Element Of Mystery

Hawaii Talks Described As Puzzling Conference

Frank Cormier, AP White House correspondent who was one of the newsmen covering the Honolulu meeting between President Johnson and South Vietnamese leaders, reviews some of the puzzling element of the conference.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's meeting in Honolulu with leaders of South Viet Nam was one of the more puzzling international conferences of recent years.

Despite a torrent of public and private pronouncements by its participants, the whole meeting retained an element of mystery.

The mid-Pacific parley was born, in fact, under puzzling circumstances. Johnson announced plans for it last Friday and left for Hawaii Saturday. All evidence at the conference site bore the earmarks of hasty preparation, at least so far as physical arrangements were concerned.

Item: only hours before the President's arrival, walls were torn open in his Waikiki Hotel suite — so air conditioning could be installed.

Johnson flew to Hawaii as the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, dominated by critics of his Southeast Asia policy, was holding nationally televised hearings on the Viet Nam situation.

Some of the possible witnesses on the administration side went with him.

The White House insisted there was no connection between the conference and the hearings. Before leaving Washington, Johnson said the focus of the conference would be on planned efforts of the Saigon government to promote social and political reforms, with American aid. All top American officials at the meetings said this was the focal point.

Yet the conference ended with public attention fixed on other matters: possible intensification of the war and potential roadblocks to any moves toward a peaceful settlement.

In this particular, Johnson's plans may have gone awry.

When the Saigon officials arrived in Hawaii Sunday, the President welcomed them with remarks aimed at home front critics. He said Americans must stand and fight in South Viet Nam or face inevitable bloodshed elsewhere at unknown cost.

South Viet Nam's chief of state, Nguyen Van Thieu, learned about Johnson's planned statement while en route to Honolulu. He scrapped his own remarks and prepared a new arrival speech in which he applauded—almost as if it were totally unexpected — Johnson's pledge of steadfastness.

At the outset, therefore, the emphasis shifted to some extent from "the works of peace" — a phrase Johnson used in discussing Saigon's reform plans — to military firmness.

The next day, briefing officers said the Saigon group, while talking enthusiastically about reforms, also told Johnson anti-Communist forces in South Viet Nam should be strengthened because, as they put it, that's the only language the Communists understand. And they said they would never compromise with communism, although compromise presumably would go hand in hand with any meaningful peace negotiations.

Johnson, in his response, again sought to emphasize the works of peace but included a strong pledge of military determination. Tuesday the apparent tug-of-war between the Americans and the South Vietnamese on matters of emphasis took on new dimensions. It almost seemed as if Johnson and the Saigon group were vying for headlines.

Unexpectedly, the President announced soon after dawn that Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey would fly to Saigon to add emphasis to the promised reform programs.

Within 90 minutes, the two top officials of the Saigon government returned attention to their "hard line" and they held a previously scheduled news conference.

Said Chief of State Thieu and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky:

Saigon will not sit down at a conference table with representatives of the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong guerrillas, under any circumstances. The United States has said the Viet Cong would have no difficulty gaining representation at peace talks and Hanoi insists on such representation.

The South Vietnamese leaders again had their say. But Johnson got in the last word.

The President stopped in Los Angeles on his way back to Washington and, bidding Humphrey Godspeed on his mission, took advantage of his first opportunity this week to go on nationwide live television to again emphasize America's commitment to social as well as military progress in Viet Nam.

The largest meteorite crater on record is the Barringer crater near Winslow, Ariz., which is more than 4,000 feet in diameter and 600 feet deep.

India, Thailand and Vietnam are the largest growers of kenaf, a fiber plant used to make gunny sacks in which to store rice.

Non-Support Charges Dropped In City Court

Acting at the request of the complaining witness, Municipal Judge Samuel M. Chertoff today dismissed an affidavit in which Frank Reed of 418 E. 4th St. was accused of failure to support his 18-month-old son.

The charge was filed by Reed's wife, Mrs. Sandra Reed of the same address. She requested the dismissal today.

Joseph Frabel, 39, of Chester Ave. is scheduled to appear before the judge Thursday at 9 a. m. on a non-support charge. Filed by Mrs. Louella Frable, it alleges he has failed to provide support since Jan. 1 for a child, 2.

'Crash Corner' Signs Designed For Safety

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A crash program to eliminate crash corners has been undertaken by the Dade Citizens Safety Council and the Metro Traffic Dept. Five intersections with high accident records have been marked with large "Crash Corner" signs with the word "Crash" spelled out in eye-catching red letters.

After motorists become sufficiently aware of the hazardous crossings to make the label a misnomer, the safety campaigners will move the signs to five more accident-prone areas.

Election Board's Action

1,002 Precinct Workers Will Get $4 Pay Increase

The County Election Board voted Tuesday afternoon to grant a $4 pay increase to the 1,002 judges and clerks in its 167 precincts, effective with the May primaries.

The precinct personnel formerly were paid $16 for work at the primaries and the November general election. Acting under a new state law which permitted boosts for the workers, the Election Board fixed their new rate at $20.

SIX PERSONS staff each polling place, with three from each major political party.

Frank R. O'Hanlon, director of elections, commented: "It is a well - deserved raise. They earn every penny of it."

He pointed out that it is not unusual for a precinct worker to be on duty for 18 hours — or more — on an election day.

The board also agreed to follow its custom of establishing branch registration offices in East Liverpool immediately before the deadline for enrollment of voters for the primaries. The offices will be set up in the three major residential areas—Pleasant Heights, North Side and East End.

March 23 will be the final day for registration for the primaries. The branch offices will operate on March 22, with the thought that if a voter fails to qualify at a neighborhood center he still will be able to go to the Election Board's office downtown the following day, O'Hanlon said.

The board, acting on petitions filed before the deadline Feb 2, granted ballot places to 15 Republicans and 15 Democrats for district and county offices. It also granted ballot places to 123 Republicans and 167 Democrats seeking election as county central committeemen.

Four of the committeemen's petitions were rejected — two because they were filed too late and two for insufficiency in the affidavits.

THE BOARD granted ballot places to three special issues—a county proposition for mental health, a Salem municipal levy for park purposes and a Perry Township Fire District levy to provide funds for fire protection.

It also permitted the withdrawal of R. A. Edwards of Columbiana village, who filed mistakenly for a member of the Republican State Central Committee from the 18th Congressional District. Edwards explained earlier he actually sought to run for precinct committeeman in his village. His precinct committeeman's petition was among those accepted.

The board awarded a contract to the Columbus Blank Book Co. of Columbus to furnish poll books for both the May primaries and the November general election on its low bid of $24.70 per precinct.

The other bidders were the Johnson - Watson Printing Co. of Dayton, $27.05, and the Heer Printing Co. of Columbus, $27.20.

The Wellsville Publishing Co. of Wellsville was awarded the contract for providing ballots for the primaries. The board said the firm's cumulative bid totaled $4,071.65.

The other bidder was the Dodge Publishing Co. of Salem, which had a cumulative bid of $4,087.62.

The board said the bids still are subject to audit. The Wellsville firm's prices for ballots ranged from $38.40 per 1,000 for the office - type ticket to $12.70 per 1,000 for the county tax levy. Dodge Publishing Co.'s prices per 1,000 ranged from $41 for the office - type ballot to $12 for three levies.

The board also agreed that its office will be closed both Friday and Saturday in observance of Lincoln's Birthday. The action follows a new state law which provides that when a holiday falls on a Saturday, public employes also will be given the preceding day off.

William Clayton Dies; 'King Cotton Himself'

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — At an age when most men are looking forward to retirement, Will Clayton resigned as head of the world's largest cotton business and went into government service.

William Lockhart Clayton was a multimillionaire and known as "King Cotton Himself" when he joined the New Deal in 1940 at the age of 60.

In 1944 he became assistant secretary of state for economic affairs. He developed the concept of the Marshall Plan for European recovery after World War II and administered the program.

Clayton, who proved himself adept in the fields of economics, politics and national affairs, as well as cotton, died in a Houston hospital Tuesday after suffering a heart attack at his home. He was 86.

Only last Thursday he returned to Houston from a four-day trip to New York for meetings with the Atlantic Council, and to Washington, where he met with members of the U. S. Citizens' Commission on NATO, of which he was one of the original cochairmen.

Clayton, a native of Tupelo, Miss., originally set up Anderson, Clayton & Co. in Oklahoma City, Okla. In 1916 the firm was moved to Houston because, as he explained, that was the "front door" of the cotton market.

Clayton grew up in Jackson, Tenn. He left school at 13 and by studying shorthand at night qualified as a court stenographer.

However, his work failed to impress one of his early customers — William Jennings Bryan, who made him retype a speech Clayton had copied because the margins were too narrow.

Anderson, Clayton & Co. grew from an initial $5,000 investment into a firm which in 1965 boasted gross revenue of more than $488 million.

In 1918 he temporarily withdrew from his firm, established in 1904, to become a member of the Committee on Cotton Distribution under the War Industries Board.

The business executive who in later years would be recognized as the idea man behind the Marshall Plan also served as deputy federal loan administrator, assistant secretary of commerce and administrator of the Surplus War Property Administration.

President John F. Kennedy appointed him to serve as a member of the national export expansion program and in 1963 the president asked him to work for ratification of the nuclear test-ban treaty.

At President Johnson's request, Clayton joined the new Public Advisory Committee for Trade Negotiations.

Clayton leaves four daughters, a sister and a brother. His wife, whom he married in 1902, died in 1960.

Funeral services will be held in Houston at 10:30 a.m. Thursday.

Gas Fumes Kill Woman Doctor And 3 Others

CINCINNATI (AP) — A woman physician was one of four Cincinnatians found dead Tuesday, the apparent victims of poisoning by gas fumes. She was Dr. Alletta M. Bare, 33, whose mother, Mrs. Lois Bare, lives in Portsmouth.

The others were William L. Johnson and his wife, Bessie, both 39, and their 6-year-old son, William L., Jr.

Dr. Bare, an internal medicine specialist, was found in her Kennedy Heights apartment by two other doctors who went to check on her after she failed to make scheduled house calls Monday. It was believed she had been dead 24 hours.

The Johnsons were found in their apartment.

Police said they found a kitchen oven turned on in Dr. Bare's apartment. They theorized she had let it to heat her five - room apartment, retired and the flame then went out, releasing the fatal fumes.

Car Sales At Record Levels

Ohioans Personal Income Reported At New High

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Personal income of Ohioans has hit a new high, slightly above the national average.

And retail and new automobile sales are at record annual levels, the monthly Bulletin of Business Research reports.

Ohio manufacturing activity reached high levels in nearly all lines last year and agricultural income gained, the Bulletin added.

"Ohio's long-time record of paralleling the growth of the nation has been maintained in the latter years of the present expansion," the publication of Ohio State University's Bureau of Business Research said.

"At the yearend, there seemed to be little doubt that the economy has the basic strength and the momentum to sustain the cyclical expansion for an extended period into the future."

Personal income of Ohioans will approximate $29 billion for 1965, a new record and an advance of $2.5 billion, or 8 per cent, from the previous 1964 high, the report showed. The national gain was only 7 per cent.

Ohio figures were based on the first 11 months of 1965. Totals for the full year were estimated. They showed:

New passenger car sales, credited with leading retail sales higher, were up 18 per cent from 1964 against a 15 per cent national figure.

Retail sales for 1965 were set at $14.6 billion for a gain of $1 billion over the previous year, an 8 per cent gain that equaled the national spurt.

Ohio agricultural income was up 1 per cent for 1965 in contrast to a 2.3 per cent decline in 1964.

Ohio manufacturing over-all last year showed a 5 per cent increase over 1964 in workers employed, 7 per cent in man-hours and 11 per cent in payrolls. The national payroll gain was 9 per cent and the increase in workers 5 per cent, figures showed.

Canton had the greatest rise in total employment and payrolls among Ohio's eight largest cities, 11-month figures showed. Youngstown was second.

Gains in retail sales ranged from 4 per cent in Toledo to 11 per cent in Youngstown.

All cities except Youngstown showed declines in the number of commercial failures reported but Akron and Cleveland had increased liabilities.

Akron and Cincinnati far exceeded 1964 in the value of building permits granted but Cleveland and Toledo showed declines.

Ohio Traffic Mishaps Kill Seven More

By The Associated Press

The latest traffic deaths reported in Ohio were about evenly divided between metropolitan and rural areas.

Kenneth Fitzgerald, 26, Logan.

Oliver Blackburn Sr., 75, Pikeville, Ky.

Miss Ella Weisenberg, 70, Toledo.

Mrs. Mabel Blake, 60, Cincinnati.

John Balkus, 41, Lakewood.

Mrs. Ada Kelley, 30, Wakeman (Huron County).

Clyde Shindeldecker, 75, Rockford (Mercer County).

Fitzgerald's auto cracked up Tuesday night on U. S. 33 a mile north of Logan.

Blackburn drove out of a side road Tuesday onto Ohio 4 near Dayton and into the path of another car.

Miss Weisenberg died in a four-car accident Tuesday at a Toledo intersection.

Balkus' car jumped a curb Tuesday and rammed a utility pole in Cleveland.

Mrs. Blake was riding Tuesday with her husband, James, 72, when an auto in Cincinnati hit a car from the rear, causing it to swerve head-on into the Blake vehicle.

Mrs. Kelley swerved the pickup truck she was operating Tuesday east of Norwalk to avoid hitting a dog—and collided head-on with a tractor-trailer rig. Mrs. Kelley had been en route home from visiting her 2-month-old daughter in a hospital.

Aid To Cities, Schools, Counties

$21 Million Fund Seen On Church Property Tax

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Taxing church property would add about $21 million revenue for Ohio cities, schools and counties and a lot of controversy in religious circles.

Any proposal to put churches on the property tax rolls would be opposed by many church leaders. But some feel proposals for contributions in lieu of taxes would be received more favorably.

"There is growing support for the idea of a voluntary contribution in return for services a church as a property owner receives from a state," said Dr. John Wilson, executive director of the Ohio Council of Churches.

But he said any suggestion that church property be taxed the way a house or business is taxed would reveal "wide differences of opinion" among churchmen, based largely on the question of separation of church or state.

Ohio has about $577 million worth of church real estate now exempt from taxes, most of it in metropolitan areas.

That amounts to 17.25 per cent of all tax-exempt real estate in the state. Schools and various government buildings account for most of the property exempted from taxes.

A Cleveland pastor, Rev. Dennis G. Kuby of the Unitarian Society of Cleveland, plans to ask the society to vote April 22 to contribute $10,000 to the city in lieu of the taxes from which it is exempt.

His idea for a contribution and his suggestion that churches should give up their tax-exempt status drew some support from Cleveland representatives of Episcopal and Methodist churches.

Other churchmen contacted by the Associated Press had mixed reactions. A representative of the Church of Christ said tax exemptions for churches might need some tightening, but he favored continuing them.

A Baptist editor felt exemptions were part of government's obligation to provide a free society for a free church.

A Columbus Methodist leader viewed paying taxes as possibly leading to "a true separation of church and state," saying that churches should be careful of favors accepted from the state, such as tax exemptions.

Some religious leaders, Wilson said, feel exemptions make churches "in a sense subsidized by the state," while others feel "not being taxed by the state is a source of freedom from it."

Lima Newspaper Faces Decision On Continuing

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—Directors of the Lima Star must decide whether the newspaper should seek new capital to continue publishing or abandon the five-month-old paper, a spokesman said today.

Directors were to meet at 1 p. m.

Stockholders and supporters were told at a rally Tuesday night that the newspaper has shown a profit the last couple of weeks but that new capital would be needed to pay off existing debts and continue publication.

The decision for the directors, the spokesman said, is "whether it is worth the risk" to seek additional capital to continue publication.

The Star began operations Sept. 8 as a second newspaper in Lima. The Lima News had been the only paper in the city since the Lima Citizen ceased publication in 1964 after about eight years of operation.

2 Pilots Slated For Testimony In Nucklos' Trial

CHARLESTON (AP) — Two Charleston pilots who allegedly received state pay for private work were expected to testify today in the falsification trial of former West Virginia Motor Vehicles Commissioner Jack A. Nuckols.

The state contended transmittal sheets contained the names of the two pilots and three other persons who worked privately for Nuckols but were paid by the state.

Robert B. Morrison, director of accounting in the Motor Vehicles Department, testified Tuesday that one pilot, Clarence Conner was listed on employment cards as a reviewing officer and a junior clerk, while the second pilot, Edward Schultz was designated as an examiner.

The other three persons named by Morrison were Ruth Hensley, of Charleston, listed as a secretary, Evon Arbutus Persinger, also of Charleston, as a bookkeeper and junior clerk and Jay Rowe of Logan as an investigator.

William Conway, director of accounting in the state auditor's department, also testified Tuesday. He said the gross pay of the five people was $8,186 over a 15-month period from March, 1964 to last June 30.

Nuckols is on trial in Kanawha County Intermediate Court on a charge of falsifying state records and expense accounts.

Fraud Trial Jury Seated

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Court aides hauled extra tables into Judge Carl Weinman's U. S. District courtroom Tuesday for huge stacks of documents expected to be introduced in the latest Certified Credit Corp. proceedings.

A jury was seated to hear mail fraud charges against five men associated with the firm that went bankrupt.

Weinman overruled defense motions asking separate trials for the five defendants.

One is board chairman, Daniel E. Armel, of Columbus, whom U. S. Justice Department lawyer Edward Barnes termed in his opening statement Tuesday the "driving force" behind Certified.

The others are Joseph Devennish, former general counsel and director; and Chester Hathaway, Don Hathaway and Jack Singleton of Hathaway & Hathaway accounting firm.

All are named on one count of conspiracy to defraud and 29 counts of mail fraud.

Judge's Papers Are Disqualified

YOUNGSTOWN — The Mahoning County Board of Elections Tuesday disqualified the nominating petition of Appellate Judge Nils P. Johnson for the Republican primary May 3 because the circulated petitions are not identical copies of the master petition. The district covers 13 counties from Lake and Ashtabula on the north.

Judge Johnson had asked that the board disregard his first petition becaue later he filed a master petition. He also paid two $50 filing fees. The question was whether the petitions are identical copies. The board decided they are not.

The election board also found that the declaration of candidacy of John P. Powers as a candidate for Democratic nomination for the 19th District congressman had insufficient valid signatures. He was the only one to file against U.S. Rep. Michael J. Kirwan for the Democratic primary.

A disqualified candidate will have a chance to argue his case before the board. If the board does not change its ruling the candidate could sue if he decided to run in the primary.

Under Program At Crucible

3,000th Pint Of Blood

The 3,000th pint of blood donated to the employes' blood credit program at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. was given Tuesday by Thomas Essa of Midland Heights.

He is shown with Dr. J. A. Helfrich of Midland and Mrs. Albert J. Kolish of Rochester, chief nurse for the Beaver County regional Red Cross blood center at New Brighton.

In all, 60 pints of blood were given during the visit of the Red Cross nurses and volunteer workers at the Midland Steelworkers Hall. Both Dr. Helfrich and Dr. Thomas S. Boyd of Midland assisted.

Essa, a Crucible employe seven years and a slitter helper in the Cold Strip, was a substitute donor for Berdell Dunn of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, who also works in the Cold Strip.

The blood credit program was launched in September 1957. Under it, employes and their eligible dependents may receive blood free when necessary, regardless of the number of pints needed.

There are between 1,500 and 2,000 Midland Works employes who are currently giving their second pint of blood. The Red Cross assists the company with the program.

Applications are available at the plant medical department at all times for employes interested in joining the program.

The theme is "Join the Blood Bank Now and Have One Less Worry in Time of Need."

Man Released After 12 Extra Years In Pen

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — George Robison, who the 9th District Court of Appeals ruled last week should have gotten out of prison in 1952, went free Tuesday after spending 12 "extra" years in Ohio penitentiary.

Robison of Mount Vernon was accused of breaking into the home of a brother-in-law, where his wife was staying, at Wooster in 1950. He was given a life sentence for burglary—when he had been indicted for breaking and entering at night, which provides for a maximum sentence of two years. Robison, 53, was paroled twice during his term but returned for violations before the appeals court's new order.

They're MICHIGAN cherries, the flavorful, juicy-tart ones. Simmered sweet and slow with sugar, spice and seasonings to make them so Country Kitchen Good.

You know, this is traditionally cherry pie time and surely you'll want to celebrate. That patriotic fellow, your grocer, is featuring all the fixin's right now to help you. Better bring home TWO cans of Thank You brand Cherry Pie Filling so you're ready for "seconds!"

Fraud Trial Jury Seated

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Court aides hauled extra tables into Judge Carl Weinman's U. S. District courtroom Tuesday for huge stacks of documents expected to be introduced in the latest Certified Credit Corp. proceedings.

A jury was seated to hear mail fraud charges against five men associated with the firm that went bankrupt.

Weinman overruled defense motions asking separate trials for the five defendants.

One is board chairman Daniel E. Armel, of Columbus, whom U. S. Justice Department lawyer Edward Barnes termed in his opening statement Tuesday the "driving force" behind Certified.

The others are Joseph Devennish, former general counsel and director; and Chester Hathaway, Don Hathaway and Jack Singleton of Hathaway & Hathaway accounting firm.

All are named on one count of conspiracy to defraud and 29 counts of mail fraud.

Judge's Papers Are Disqualified

YOUNGSTOWN — The Mahoning County Board of Elections Tuesday disqualified the nominating petition of Appellate Judge Nils P. Johnson for the Republican primary May 3 because the circulated petitions are not identical copies of the master petition. The district covers 13 counties from Lake and Ashtabula on the north.

Judge Johnson had asked that the board disregard his first petition because later he filed a master petition. He also paid two $50 filing fees. The question was whether the petitions are identical copies. The board decided they are not.

The election board also found that the declaration of candidacy of John P. Powers as a candidate for Democratic nomination for the 19th District congressman had insufficient valid signatures. He was the only one to file against U.S. Rep. Michael J. Kirwan for the Democratic primary.

A disqualified candidate will have a chance to argue his case before the board. If the board does not change its ruling the candidate could sue if he decided to run in the primary.

Under Program At Crucible

3,000th Pint Of Blood

The 3,000th pint of blood donated to the employes' blood credit program at the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. was given Tuesday by Thomas Essa of Midland Heights.

He is shown with Dr. J. A. Helfrich of Midland and Mrs. Albert J. Kolish of Rochester, chief nurse for the Beaver County regional Red Cross blood center at New Brighton.

In all, 60 pints of blood were given during the visit of the Red Cross nurses and volunteer workers at the Midland Steelworkers Hall. Both Dr. Helfrich and Dr. Thomas S. Boyd of Midland assisted.

Essa, a Crucible employe seven years and a slitter helper in the Cold Strip, was a substitute donor for Berdell Dunn of Smiths Ferry R. D. 1, who also works in the Cold Strip.

The blood credit program was launched in September 1957. Under it, employes and their eligible dependents may receive blood free when necessary, regardless of the number of pints needed.

There are between 1,500 and 2,000 Midland Works employes who are currently giving their second pint of blood. The Red Cross assists the company with the program.

Applications are available at the plant medical department at all times for employes interested in joining the program.

The theme is "Join the Blood Bank Now and Have One Less Worry in Time of Need."

U.S. Steel's Donora Works To Be Closed

PITTSBURGH (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. said Tuesday its Donora Works in Washington County will be closed gradually in the next year, beginning in April.

The shutdown will affect 825 employes, U.S. Steel announced at a news conference. It added that employment in other plants will be offered to displaced workers.

Operations at Donora will be transferred to U.S. Steel facilities at Fairless Hills in Eastern Pennsylvania. The plant produces steel wire and galvanized products.

U.S. Steel officials blamed the shutdown on competition from foreign imports and the shifting of markets away from the Pittsburgh area.

Astronaut L. Gordon Cooper says, "I don't think that any of us who have been Boy Scouts, who have grown up active in Scouts, and who have taken Scouting seriously can ever doubt that Scouting is one of the greatest influences in our lives as we were growing up."

Greatest Treasure Chest

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest treasure chest is memory.

Things in a hope chest mildew and fade with the passing years. But time increases the value of the contents of memory's treasure chest. What remains is tested and true, and shines in the recollecting heart like purest gold.

And you've stored up a lot of 24-carat memories yourself if you can look back and remember when—

It was a mark of progress in a small town when it started its second cemetery.

No dining room was complete without a big cut glass bowl on the real lace tablecloth.

The girl who delivered the valedictory address for the high school graduating class usually wore a gown she had sewn herself.

You first became aware of the problem of inflation when the local movie house jumped its price from a dime to 15 cents.

In grammar school, kids still carried their own small slates to class because many one-room red schoolhouses didn't have blackboards.

Only the well-do-to kept goldfish.

You were afraid the neighbors would think you were a sissy if they saw you helping mama hang up the wash on the back yard line. Mama herself always seemed to have her mouth full of wooden clothespins.

Another childhood chore you hated was having to scrub out the old tin-lined kitchen icebox.

As soon as you learned to pump the player piano well, mother started bragging you'd turn out to be another Paderewski.

The most doleful fate in the world was to turn out to be the last child in kindergarten to catch the chicken pox. By then all the others were looking forward to mumps or the measles.

You never tired of watching the ceremony grandpa made out of cleaning his spectacles. He would blow his breath on each lens, polish them vigorously with his handkerchief, hold the glasses up to the window light to be sure they were quite clear, then har-r-r-umph and say, "Well, now, that's better"—as if he had done a hard day's work.

Nothing in the dime store sold for more than a quarter.

Any lady who wore a wig was sure to be talked about all over the neighborhood.

Half the old men with false teeth refused to wear them except when they went to church or attended a funeral.

Every ice cream and sweets shop in the land had marble-topped tables and wire-back chairs.

The dudes who hung around the barbershop on Saturday night always wore white buck shoes in summer—and snapped their bow ties whenever a pretty girl went by.

You could go through life without ever meeting anyone who had ever been to Korea or Viet Nam.

Those were the good old days!

State Plans To Spotlight Motive In Mossler Murder

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler, her patience waning, faces a new ordeal today. The state will be spotlighting what it says is the motive for the murder of her multimillionaire husband — an illicit affair with her nephew.

"It's a mean, nasty case, your honor," State Atty. Richard Gerstein told circuit Judge George Schulz with a visible air of resignation Tuesday after a day of turbulent, legal infighting.

Today could prove to be even more trying than Tuesday's session, which ended with Mrs. Mossler shaking her head and hissing "liar" at state witnesses.

The state declined to pin itself down on today's witness lineup. But on call were residents of Houston, Tex. The attractive Mrs. Mossler, who gives her age as 39, sprang to social prominence there with the help of her slain husband's $33-million banking and loan empire.

Mrs. Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, 29, are charged with slaying her 69-year-old husband, Jacques.

Time and again, Judge Schulz sent the all-male jury out of the courtroom while he patiently smoothed out roaring legal clashes between the state and the defense.

It was almost anticlimactic when state testimony ended with the soft voice of Miss Cleo Consuegra, 21, who used her maiden name although now married. A bad check charge placed her in the Dade County jail last August when Mrs. Mossler became a temporary inmate, before gaining release in $50,000 bail.

"I was her bunkmate. I had a bunk over her," said Miss Consuegra, a tall, black - haired woman.

"We talked a lot," she testified. "First she told me that her husband was a homosexual."

The defense contends Mossler could have been bludgeoned and beaten to death by fellow inhabitants of a weird sexual underworld.

"At first," Miss Consuegra continued, "Mrs. Mossler said Powers hadn't been in Miami (at the time of the Mossler slaying), then she said he was in Miami. I asked her why she changed. She said he wasn't a member of the family and she didn't want him brought into this. I asked her where he was on the night of the murder, and she said she guessed he was having a drink."

Mrs. Mossler shook her head and called "Liar" at Miss Consuegra's testimony. But the blonde defendant had been far more vocal earlier in the day. An articulate convict had testified she had given him a $7,000 downpayment in 1962 to kill her husband.

"I have never seen or heard of this man," Mrs. Mossler cried in a voice audible through most of the courtroom.

Earthworm Shortage Has Anglers On Hook

TOKYO (AP) — There's a shortage of earthworms in Tokyo. Spreading urbanization is responsible, bait shop owners say.

Anglers are lamenting the fact that a thimble of earthworms for bait now costs about 14 cents — 10 times the price of 10 years ago.

The remains of two circular huts built by paleo - Indians some 10,000 years ago were uncovered at Hell Gap near Guernsey, Wyo. The site has been under excavation for the past five years.

OSU Trustees Asked To OK Biological Sciences College

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State University trustees are being asked to create the institution's first new college since 1916—a College of Biological Sciences.

Establishment of what would be OSU's 11th college was recommended by the Faculty Council Tuesday.

The colleges are the major units of organization for educational administration, each headed by a dean. Present ones are Arts and Sciences, Commerce and Administration, Agriculture and Home Economics, Medicine, Dentistry, Engineering, Pharmacy, Law, Veterinary Medicine, and Education.

The trustees are expected to receive the proposal at their March or April meeting, after the university's Committee on Rules has drafted necessary rule amendments.

The plan as proposed would transfer 146 faculty members to the College of Biological sciences. Another 29 would have joint appointments under it and another college.

Currently, the departments of agricultural biochemistry, botany and plant pathology, and zoology and entomology are in the Agriculture College; the department of microbiology in Arts and Sciences. The division of biophysics is a unit of the Graduate School.

There was opposition at the Faculty Council meeting, largely from faculty members wishing to remain in the College of Agriculture.

Prior to the final vote, the council defeated an amendment that would create separate departments of plant pathology and entomology in the Agriculture College.

The council approval follows initial proposal of the new administrative unit as part of a 1962 report of the university president's permanent Planning approval of the plan by the Council on Instruction.

Paraguay is about the size of Montana. It contains extensive hardwood forests, rich soil, navigable streams and an excellent climate.

Greatest Treasure Chest

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The greatest treasure chest is memory.

Things in a hope chest mildew and fade with the passing years. But time increases the value of the contents of memory's treasure chest. What remains is tested and true, and shines in the recollecting heart like purest gold.

And you've stored up a lot of 24-carat memories yourself if you can look back and remember when—

It was a mark of progress in a small town when it started its second cemetery.

No dining room was complete without a big cut glass bowl on the real lace tablecloth.

The girl who delivered the valedictory address for the high school graduating class usually wore a gown she had sewn herself.

You first became aware of the problem of inflation when the local movie house jumped its price from a dime to 15 cents.

In grammar school, kids still carried their own small slates to class because many one-room red schoolhouses didn't have blackboards.

Only the well-do-to kept goldfish.

You were afraid the neighbors would think you were a sissy if they saw you helping mama hang up the wash on the back yard line. Mama herself always seemed to have her mouth full of wooden clothespins.

Another childhood chore you hated was having to scrub out the old tin-lined kitchen icebox.

As soon as you learned to pump the player piano well, mother started bragging you'd turn out to be another Paderewski.

The most doleful fate in the world was to turn out to be the last child in kindergarten to catch the chicken pox. By then all the others were looking forward to mumps or the measles.

You never tired of watching the ceremony grandpa made out of cleaning his spectacles. He would blow his breath on each lens, polish them vigorously with his handkerchief, hold the glasses up to the window light to be sure they were quite clear, then har-r-r-umph and say, "Well, now, that's better"—as if he had done a hard day's work.

Nothing in the dime store sold for more than a quarter.

Any lady who wore a wig was sure to be talked about all over the neighborhood.

Half the old men with false teeth refused to wear them except when they went to church or attended a funeral.

Every ice cream and sweets shop in the land had marble-topped tables and wire-back chairs.

Nothing annoyed a young fellow more when he was taking his girl out for a ride than to have the horse throw a shoe.

People were more afraid of tuberculosis than of cancer.

The dudes who hung around the barbershop on Saturday night always wore white buck shoes in summer—and snapped their bow ties whenever a pretty girl went by.

You could go through life without ever meeting anyone who had ever been to Korea or Viet Nam.

Those were the good old days!

State Plans To Spotlight Motive In Mossler Murder

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Blonde Candace Mossler, her patience waning, faces a new ordeal today. The state will be spotlighting what it says is the motive for the murder of her multimillionaire husband — an illicit affair with her nephew.

"It's a mean, nasty case, your honor," State Atty. Richard Gerstein told circuit Judge George Schulz with a visible air of resignation Tuesday after a day of turbulent, legal infighting.

Today could prove to be even more trying than Tuesday's session, which ended with Mrs. Mossler shaking her head and hissing "liar" at state witnesses.

The state declined to pin itself down on today's witness lineup. But on call were residents of Houston, Tex. The attractive Mrs. Mossler, who gives her age as 39, sprang to social prominence there with the help of her slain husband's $33-million banking and loan empire.

Mrs. Mossler and her nephew, Melvin Lane Powers, 29, are charged with slaying her 69-year-old husband, Jacques.

Time and again, Judge Schulz sent the all-male jury out of the courtroom while he patiently smoothed out roaring legal clashes between the state and the defense.

It was almost anticlimactic when state testimony ended with the soft voice of Miss Cleo Consuegra, 21, who used her maiden name although now married. A bad check charge placed her in the Dade County jail last August when Mrs. Mossler became a temporary inmate, before gaining release in $50,000 bail.

"I was her bunkmate. I had a bunk over her," said Miss Consuegra, a tall, black - haired woman.

"We talked a lot," she testified. "First she told me that her husband was a homosexual."

The defense contends Mossler could have been bludgeoned and beaten to death by fellow inhabitants of a weird sexual underworld.

"At first," Miss Consuegra continued, "Mrs. Mossler said Powers hadn't been in Miami (at the time of the Mossler slaying), then she said he was in Miami. I asked her why she changed. She said he wasn't a member of the family and she didn't want him brought into this. I asked her where he was on the night of the murder, and she said she guessed he was having a drink."

Mrs. Mossler shook her head and called "Liar" at Miss Consuegra's testimony. But the blonde defendant had been far more vocal earlier in the day. An articulate convict had testified she had given him a $7,000 downpayment in 1962 to kill her husband.

"I have never seen or heard of this man," Mrs. Mossler cried in a voice audible through most of the courtroom.

Earthworm Shortage Has Anglers On Hook

TOKYO (AP) — There's a shortage of earthworms in Tokyo. Spreading urbanization is responsible, bait shop owners say.

Anglers are lamenting the fact that a thimble of earthworms for bait now costs about 14 cents — 10 times the price of 10 years ago.

The remains of two circular huts built by paleo - Indians some 10,000 years ago were uncovered at Hell Gap near Guernsey, Wyo. The site has been under excavation for the past five years.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruse —

Dear Heloise: Two small, but helpful, discoveries came after our trip into town to get groceries last weekend.

When you have several sacks or boxes of groceries to "put away," set up your adjustable ironing board, with the board at its lowest position, and place your boxes or bags on this.

Makes it easy to reach groceries and to see them without having to peek over the top of all sacks. And, oh what a back saver, too, because you don't have to stoop so low each time.

By the way, those new net bags for keeping grapes are wonderful. They prevent people from picking the best grapes and leaving the culls!

Also, you can wash the grapes right in the bags themselves, and none go down the drain, or into the sink, to have to be retrieved later.

You can then remove the grapes you want to eat, inspect the others, and return them to the bag, so you won't have loose grapes rolling around in your vegetable keeper.

Then, think of all the things you can use the net bags for when it's empty!

MRS. JOHN GOODWIN.

You gave me an idea for those who don't buy grapes in mesh bags:

When you bring some grapes home, why not put them in a clean nylon mesh bag such as onions, potatoes, etc., come in?

As you stated, the bag would permit washing without losing grapes, or having them stray around the vegetable crisper. Also, they can drip dry beautifully this way.

Oh, and we thank you no end for the ironing board idea. It's great.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: I have learned a way to avoid spills and spots on the rug underneath my 14-month-old daughter's highchair. . . .

I place a used, clear, plastic tablecloth underneath the highchair at mealtime, and find that it catches any spills.

When the meal is over, I just dump any spilled food into the trash, and have a clean rug with no spots to fuss about.

MRS. C. STEPHENS.

DEAR HELOISE: For mothers with your babies who use pacifiers:

You know how annoying it is when you are always washing it off when baby drops it out of his mouth onto the floor.

Take a piece of ribbon, and tie one end to a large safety pin, and the other end to the ring of the pacifier. Then pin it on to shirt, gown or whatever baby is wearing.

VIRGINIA CARNES.

DEAR HELOISE: Paper-training a puppy in an apartment?

Don't forget to protect the linoleum from odor and moiture with a sheet of waxed paper under the absorbent paper.

PATRICIA R. JOHNSTONE

Or, you could use aluminum foil.

HELOISE.

DEAR HELOISE: My husband occasionally orders slacks by mail.

We receive swatches of new material from certain manufacturers from time to time.

I save these samples to use for patching my husband's slacks, since the colors blend, and the weights of the materials are similar.

These patches are also useful for patching other articles of clothing.

DEAR HELOISE: Another use for plastic bags is to use them for ice caps.

I notice the nurses in our hospital using different sizes for different places of the body.

Be sure there are no holes in them, and fasten them securely with rubber bands or other means.

A READER.

Instead of easily - broken, fancy long matches to light the fireplace log, I use wax-coated drinking straws.

The straws are long-burning and long enough to reach into far corners.

ROBERTA S. KAAN.

Fruit fritters — apple, plum, pineapple, peach, orange—taste wonderful with batter - fried chicken. Just use some of the chicken batter for the fruit. When canned plums, pineapple slices or peach halves are used, they should be thoroughly drained before dipping in the batter.

Bringing Up A Family

By DR. GARRY MYERS

New Baby In Family Worries Older Child

Parents of the only child under three, four or five may not be annoyed with quarreling by him, except when playmates come or he joins other children elsewhere to play. But the less time he plays with other children of his age the more quarrelsome he may become when he does. As soon as the only child gets one or more brothers or sisters, some quarreling among them is inevitable when they are tots or older. Let us center on quarreling among brothers and sisters.

Dr. Garry Myers

After the second child arrives, even when too young to quarrel, something has happened to the older one. Until then he was the center of the universe, the hub of attention from his parents, other relatives and other adults.

WHEN THE new baby arrives, his mother must devote a good deal of her time and attention to this infant. The father and other persons naturally are strongly attracted to the baby.

Inevitably the older child does not get as much attention as he was used to getting. He doesn't reason out the cause; he just feels the loss of much of what he once enjoyed. He may feel himself less loved and wanted, and if his parents, relatives and neighbors are not aware of his plight, they can greatly enchance his unhappy feelings.

Because of his plight, he may grow antagonistic to one or both parents or anybody else taking care of him. Almost surely he will come to feel the baby has stolen something precious of his.

As this baby begins creeping and walking and growing older, the feeling of jealousy can cause him to dislike this younger brother or sister, to tease him and torment him. This feeling can be a source of quarreling from then on.

WHEN THE parents naturally protect the younger child, the older one may feel more disturbed, more jealous. If as quarreling between these two youngsters increases the elder more often gets rebuked or punished than the younger. The elder one will feel more sure he is not loved and wanted as much as the younger is.

However, occasional parents are so sensitive to the plight of the older child as to find ways to build him up and make him feel more secure. As they do so, they diminish one big source of quarreling between these children.

Another source of quarreling between tots and older children is the overlapping of their possessions and the failure of the parents to cultivate respect for ownership by each brother or sister.

From very early years, each child should have one or more things of his very own and have this ownership protected by his parents. He then also needs to have some playthings used in common or by taking turns. When they are old enough to do chores at home, these should be definite, justly distributed and should rarely overlap.

WHEN TWO youngsters of school age are set to do the dishes together, quarreling is almost inevitable. It's better when they take turns doing such jobs alone.

Two or more children at meals may quarrel over ideas or remarks. The problem is to guide them in arguing without heat or high voices. When the quarreling passes reasonable endurance by the parents, one or more of the offenders should be sent away to finish the meal elsewhere.

It's not easy to ascertain which child has started a quarrel or fight, as when it occurs in another room. It is foolish to go, and by questioning, try to apprehend the aggressor. It's better merely to separate them for an appreciable time without trying to place the blame.

Unfortunately most parents are inclined to assume that the elder "started it." More often than not, perhaps, the younger did.

ANYTHING parents can do to cultivate a quiet, relaxed companionable happy mealtime will help to reduce quarreling then. The more good times the whole family have together anywhere, the less the children tend to quarrel.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Lander: All my married life I've felt like a nobody because I was "only a housewife." My husband made me feel that I should be grateful to him for putting food in my mouth and clothes on my back.

Today I read something that gave me a lift. If you print it I'll bet you'll give thousands of housewives a new lease on life.

The home economics department of our state college published a leaflet in chart form. It shows what a housewife is worth per week in dollars and cents on today's labor market. Here it is:

Cooking, table setting, serving, at $2 an hour . . . $50.

Dishwashing, at $1.25 an hour . . . $17.50.

Child care at 50 cents an hour (ridiculous, since this is what most sitters get for just sitting) . . . $17.50.

Routine housework, at $1.25 an hour . . . $22.50.

Laundry, at $1.25 an hour . . . $6.25.

Ironing, at $1.25 an hour . . . $6.25.

The chart suggests adding 25 per cent for miscellaneous work. So the grand total is $150 a week. On a yearly basis a housewife is worth $7,800.

Believe it or not, this leaflet has given me dignity. I no longer feel like a parasite. Tonight when Mr. Greathert comes home I'm going to greet him like a woman who earns almost $8,000 a year, because that's what I am.—SHAMED NO LONGER.

-:-

Dear Ashamed No Longer: Housewives of America, unite! Clip this column for your husband. And as for you, Mr. Greathert, take that—and that—and that.

Guilty Conscience

Dear Ann: Five years ago I had a baby girl out of wedlock. I saw her while I was in the hopsital and then turned her over to an adoption agency.

Since that time I married a wonderful, mature man who has a Ph.D. in education and now is teaching. We have a child and hope to have more.

I have not been honest with my husband about my past, and this bothers me terribly. What's more, my feeling of guilt seems to be growing instead of diminishing.

I've been considering checking with the adoption agency to learn if my daughter is happy and if she is being well taken care of. If she is not, I'm sure my husband would help me regain custody. Wouldn't this be the ideal solution? Advise me, please.—MOTHER OF TWO.

Dear Mother: Ideal for whom? Surely not for the child—or for the adoptive parents.

Tell your husband the truth and get this off your conscience. And forget about trying to locate the child. A legitimate agency won't give you the information, and if you were able to get it by hook or crook, your chances of regaining custody would be zero.

Out In Cold

Dear Ann: I'm a paper boy who has the usual gripe about people who owe money and don't answer the doorbell when they know I'm coming to collect. But that's not what I'm writing about.

I wish you'd print something about people who have nice warm home but won't ask us in for a few minutes when we are out trying to collect.

Tonight it was below zero and I was freezing. A dozen people handed the money to me through a crack in the door and then slammed it real fast so they wouldn't let any cold air in the house. Don't they realize the paper boy is out in that cold air for hours?

One word from you could help a lot. Thanks, Ann.—ICICLE IKE.

Dear Readers Who Live Where It's Cold: For heaven's sake, folks, please invite the paper boy in to thaw out on those freezing nights when he comes to collect. (There, son, I said 22 words and I hope it helps.)

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quasars apparently are the oldest and most distant objects in the universe.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Lander: All my married life I've felt like a nobody because I was "only a housewife." My husband made me feel that I should be grateful to him for putting food in my mouth and clothes on my back.

Today I read something that gave me a lift. If you print it I'll bet you'll give thousands of housewives a new lease on life.

The home economics department of our state college published a leaflet in chart form. It shows what a housewife is worth per week in dollars and cents on today's labor market. Here it is:

Cooking, table setting, serving, at $2 an hour . . . $50.

Dishwashing, at $1.25 an hour . . . $17.50.

Child care at 50 cents an hour (ridiculous, since this is what most sitters get for just sitting) . . . $17.50.

Routine housework, at $1.25 an hour . . . $22.50.

Laundry, at $1.25 an hour . . . $6.25.

Ironing, at $1.25 an hour . . . $6.25.

The chart suggests adding 25 per cent for miscellaneous work. So the grand total is $150 a week. On a yearly basis a housewife is worth $7,800.

Believe it or not, this leaflet has given me dignity. I no longer feel like a parasite. Tonight when Mr. Greathert comes home I'm going to greet him like a woman who earns almost $8,000 a year, because that's what I am.—SHAMED NO LONGER.

Dear Ashamed No Longer: Housewives of America, unite! Clip this column for your husband. And as for you, Mr. Greathert, take that—and that—and that.

Guilty Conscience

Dear Ann: Five years ago I had a baby girl out of wedlock. I saw her while I was in the hopsital and then turned her over to an adoption agency.

Since that time I married a wonderful, mature man who has a Ph.D. in education and now is teaching. We have a child and hope to have more.

I have not been honest with my husband about my past, and this bothers me terribly. What's more, my feeling of guilt seems to be growing instead of diminishing.

I've been considering checking with the adoption agency to learn if my daughter is happy and if she is being well taken care of. If she is not, I'm sure my husband would help me regain custody. Wouldn't this be the ideal solution? Advise me, please.—MOTHER OF TWO.

Dear Mother: Ideal for whom? Surely not for the child—or for the adoptive parents.

Tell your husband the truth and get this off your conscience. And forget about trying to locate the child. A legitimate agency won't give you the information, and if you were able to get it by hook or crook, your chances of regaining custody would be zero.

Out In Cold

Dear Ann: I'm a paper boy who has the usual gripe about people who owe money and don't answer the doorbell when they know I'm coming to collect. But that's not what I'm writing about.

I wish you'd print something about people who have nice warm home but won't ask us in for a few minutes when we are out trying to collect.

Tonight it was below zero and I was freezing. A dozen people handed the money to me through a crack in the door and then slammed it real fast so they wouldn't let any cold air in the house. Don't they realize the paper boy is out in that cold air for hours?

One word from you could help a lot. Thanks, Ann.—ICICLE IKE.

Dear Readers Who Live Where It's Cold: For heaven's sake, folks, please invite the paper boy in to thaw out on those freezing nights when he comes to collect. (There, son, I said 22 words and I hope it helps.)

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Quasars apparently are the oldest and most distant objects in the universe.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Can TV Survive Batman?

"It's entertaining a lot of people, and we're in the entertainment business," says executive producer William Dozier of his "Batman" series on ABC, and not the least bit defensively.

Hal Humphrey

He chuckles like one of his own "Batman" "guest villains" when asked if he can sleep the sleep of the innocent after driving this two-headed nail into TV's cultural coffin.

"WE DON'T PRETEND it will elevate anyone culturally," adds the dapper Dozier, veteran movie and TV maker, who during his tenure as program executive at CBS-TV some years ago was a guiding hand for such memorable TV as "Studio 1," "Playhouse 90" and the semi-documentary, "You Are There."

"But that kind of thing won't get on TV again," he adds, referring to those drama series of the mid-'50s, "because the medium has become a merchandising business, and not enough people watched those dramas to move the volume of goods to be moved."

Dozier accepts the demise of TV's better days philosophically, and his only current regret seems to be that 12- and 13-year-olds don't dig "Batman". He probably sees this deficient age group as so many sales missed for "Batman" tights, capes and Batarangs.

"ADULTS may not necessarily like 'Batman,' but they are amused by it. Young kids take it seriously and teen-agers see the humor in it, but those around 12 and 13 have blind spots. They don't take it seriously and don't find it funny," Dozier explains, like a man who's just missed inventig Utopia.

One of the key elements in Batman's apparent big success, Dozier thinks, is the "Special Guest Villain," as he or she is billed each week. Next Wednesday and Thursday (Feb. 16-17) marks the first return of a villain, the Riddler, as played again by Frank Gorshin, whom Dozier considers a first-rate example of what he strives for in villains.

"They must be classic actors," he says. "John Barrymore would have been great, because the character must have a Machiavellain quality, a sense of humor and, above all, be capable of murder.

"SOMEONE suggested that Allan Sherman should do 'The Penguin,' but I don't believe people would think he could kill anyone. We chose Burgess Meredity, who was marvelous as 'The Penquin.' Incidentally," adds Dozier, "Meredith said he would have come all the way from Japan to play the role."

Dozier's office has been literally swamped with calls from well-known actors wanting to do "Batman" villains — Cyril Ritchard, Nanette Fabray, James Mason, Vincent Price, Liberace, Jonathan Winters, Roddy McDowall to name a few.

The Shakespearean classicist, Maurice Evans, was approached to do one before the series reached the air, but his agent turned it down. Now Evans is on the volunteer list and waiting to be cast. All receive between $3,500 and $4,500 for these guest shots.

SEVERAL renowned comics want to show off on "Batman," but Dozier won't use them, "because they'd try to be funny and this would spoil the effect," and with "Batman's" current rating, who is to argue with the expert?

A month ago Dozier was having trouble finding writers who would apply their talents to this comic strip art.

"I even drafted my son, Bob, whom I discovered knew more about 'Batman' than I did. I guess he was reading comic books, fortunately, when he was a boy and I was trying to get him to read 'Moby Dick.'

"But now he's gone back to his movie writing and other writers are knocking down the door to write for 'Batman'."

As happens with any big success in show business, "Batman" is falling heir to all kinds of bandwagon publicity which will snowball the series beyond the actual proportions of its audience.

DANNY KAYE, Bob Hope and Milton Berle (on an upcoming "Hollywood Palace" program) all are planning "Batman" comedy sketches.

Suit By Bishop Cites Diversion Of Church Funds

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A suit filed here by the bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Columbus, Ohio, alleges diversion of more than $200,000 in church assets.

The suit filed in Circuit Court on behalf of Bishop John J. Carberry names as defendants Joseph Gibson Foley, identified as the brother of the late Rev. George H. Foley, pastor of a Columbus church, and two Miami firms.

The suit contends some assets of the Columbus church were invested with the stock brokerage firm of Francis I du Pont, of which Joseph Foley was a sales representative, and alleges that Joseph Foley withdrew $25,000 from the church accounts in 1963 and 1964. In 1965, the suit alleges, Joseph Foley caused du Pont to issue drafts for the balance, in excess of $175,000.

Eagle's Beauty Treatment Stirs London Birdwatchers

LONDON (AP) — The big golden eagle on the American Embassy is getting its biennial beauty treatment, but the embassy won't say what color it will be when the beauticians get through.

The 35-foot aluminum bird has been hidden behind scaffolding and canvas for about a week. The last time the public saw it the eagle had turned black from anticorrosion paint.

As workmen attempted to restore its original gold color, London birdwatchers feared it would end up sandy brown or retain a darkish hue. The embassy refused to be drawn into the speculation.

"The eagle is undergoing routine maintenance," a spokesman said. "This happens every two years."

Its color will be visible to all when the cover is removed early next week, he added.

The eagle stirred up a controversy five years ago when it was put up on the new embassy in Grosvenor Square. Many Britons complained that it was too large—larger than any British lion in the vicinity.

A lot of Britons also didn't like the modern lines of the embassy building designed by architect Eero Saarinen.

There have been no complaints recently, and unless it is being repaired most passersby pay no attention to the eagle.

8 Industries Win Renewal Permits For Dumping Waste

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eight Ashtabula County industries assured the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board they are "very actively engaged" in treating industrial wastes and won provisional permit renewals Tuesday to empty matter into Buckeye waters.

The board voted to renew their permits for six months effective Feb. 15, after which another progress report is to be made.

The board headed by State Health Director Emmett W. Arnold also advised Allen County officials to go ahead with plans for sewage facilities in an area that will include a branch campus of Ohio State University.

The move was decided upon despite notice by the Department of Public Works that the state will build facilities in the university area unless the county started them by July 1.

Allen County Health Commissioner Gene Crawford called the matter "a real problem" because proposed location of state facilities would place them where they would drain into the Ottawa River which is Lima's only water supply.

County Prosecutor Robert Balyeat told the board the earliest the county could complete facilities to include the university area in Bath Township would be September 1967. Plans call for the branch campus to open this fall.

The board also ordered Greenfield, Highland County, to cease polluting "state waters" from its overloaded sewage treatment plant by Feb. 15. Health Department engineers told the board the problem stems from a burden placed on the plant by Collins Packing Co. "an industry the community does not want to lose."

Two Vote Opposite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, was one of 27 senators signing a petition Tuesday seeking to invoke cloture on debate over the union shop bill. When the Senate refused, 51-48 with two - thirds majority required, to invoke its debate shutoff rule, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D - Ohio, negated Young's "yes" vote with a "no."

With a total of 102,834 crimes committed in Chicago last year, the crime rate in that city showed a decrease of about 12½ per cent from the previous twelve months.

GOP Liberal Wins Election To Congress

NEW YORK (AP) — In the manner of the man he will succeed in Congress, liberal Republican Theodore R. Kupferman goes out today to thank the voters for his victory in a special congressional election.

Kupferman won a narrow victory Tuesday over Democrat Orin Lehman in a special election to fill the seat left vacant by the election of Republican John V. Lindsay as mayor.

Kupferman, 45, a city councilman and attorney, who campaigned on the promise he would be another Lindsay, said he would thank voters in a morning appearance in Manhattan's 17th Congressional District.

After his victory in November, Mayor Lindsay went out onto the streets to greet the people and thank them for his election.

Kupferman also promised that, like Lindsay, he would not follow the Republican line in Congress. He said he would offer "complete independence and constructive opposition."

The new congressman credited his election to the turnout of independent voters and to "getting up at dawn to meet the voters at bus stops and subway stations."

Lindsay and his wife, Mary, spent about 15 minutes at the victory celebration Tuesday night.

He told cheering campaign workers that Kupferman "won this fight entirely on his own, through hard work and by speaking the truth to his thoughtful constituents."

Lehman said that "on the basis of unofficial returns, Mr. Kupferman has won."

Complete but unofficial returns from the 361 election districts showed Kupferman with 44,225 votes; Lehman 43,230, and Jeffrey St. John, 7,810. St. John, 35, ran on the Conservative party ticket.

The district runs from Greenwich Village up through the wealthy East Side. It includes the radio and television networks, the advertising agencies, publishing companies and the heart of the midtown business district.

The prestigious district has a 3-2 edge in Democratic registration, but it has not elected a Democrat in almost 30 years.

Lehman, 46, grandnephew of the late Sen. and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, had the backing of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Seven Arrested On Counterfeit Money Charges

CLEVELAND (AP)—Six men and a woman have been arrested by secret Service agents on charges of possessing and passing counterfeit $20 bills.

A hearing for three of the men and the woman, arrested Tuesday afternoon, was set for Feb. 23 before U. S. Commissioner Clifford E. Bruce. The other three men were nabbed Tuesday night.

Among the four arrested in the afternoon was Nick A. Imbrigiotta, 35, operator of the Whisper Room, formerly the Bird Cage Lounge, in suburban Parma Heights.

W. K. Deckard, agent in charge of the Secret Service office here, said Imbrigiotta had about $1,000 in counterfeit bills in his possession. Commissioner Bruce released Imbrigiotta on $5,000 bond.

The other three arrested Tuesday afternoon were released on $1,000 bond each. They were identified as Mrs. Ruth Sullivan, 38, of Parma; Robert L. Jordan, 35, of Cleveland, and George R. Smith, 30, Cleveland.

The men arrested Tuesday night were identified as James E. Pulley, 23, who was nabbed in Akron; Willard L. Murphy, 28, and Henry J. Ruppel Jr., 28, both apprehended in Parma. Their addresses were not available.

2 Ohio Cities Seen Short On Manpower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland and Cincinnati were among cities discussed Tuesday concerning what Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told the Senate-House Economic Committee is a manpower shortage in the Great Lakes area.

Arthur M. Ross, Bureau of Labor Statistics commissioner, testified that Cleveland with 2.8 per cent unemployment is experiencing backlogs of orders and longer delivery schedules. Shortages of workers in Cincinnati, Ross said, have begun to impede production in machine tool, metal fabricating and aircraft industries there. He said Cincinnati unemployment rate was at 3.2 per cent.

Out Of The Air

By HAL HUMPHREY

Can TV Survive Batman?

"It's entertaining a lot of people, and we're in the entertainment business," says executive producer William Dozier of his "Batman" series on ABC, and not the least bit defensively.

Hal Humphrey

He chuckles like one of his own "Batman" "guest villains" when asked if he can sleep the sleep of the innocent after driving this two-headed nail into TV's cultural coffin.

-:-

"WE DON'T PRETEND it will elevate anyone culturally," adds the dapper Dozier, veteran movie and TV maker, who during his tenure as program executive at CBS-TV some years ago was a guiding hand for such memorable TV as "Studio 1," "Playhouse 90" and the semi-documentary, "You Are There."

"But that kind of thing won't get on TV again," he adds, referring to those drama series of the mid-'50s, "because the medium has become a merchandising business, and not enough people watched those dramas to move the volume of goods to be moved."

Dozier accepts the demise of TV's better days philosophically, and his only current regret seems to be that 12- and 13-year-olds don't dig "Batman". He probably sees this deficient age group as so many sales missed for "Batman" tights, capes and Batarangs.

"ADULTS may not necessarily like 'Batman,' but they are amused by it. Young kids take it seriously and teen-agers see the humor in it, but those around 12 and 13 have blind spots. They don't take it seriously and don't find it funny," Dozier explains, like a man who's just missed inventig Utopia.

One of the key elements in Batman's apparent big success, Dozier thinks, is the "Special Guest Villain," as he or she is billed each week. Next Wednesday and Thursday (Feb. 16-17) marks the first return of a villain, the Riddler, as played again by Frank Gorshin, whom Dozier considers a first-rate example of what he strives for in villains.

"They must be classic actors," he says. "John Barrymore would have been great, because the character must have a Machiavellain quality, a sense of humor and, above all, be capable of murder.

"SOMEONE suggested that Allan Sherman should do 'The Penguin,' but I don't believe people would think he could kill anyone. We chose Burgess Meredity, who was marvelous as 'The Penquin.' Incidentally," adds Dozier, "Meredith said he would have come all the way from Japan to play the role."

Dozier's office has been literally swamped with calls from well-known actors wanting to do "Batman" villains — Cyril Ritchard, Nanette Fabray, James Mason, Vincent Price, Liberace, Jonathan Winters, Roddy McDowall to name a few.

The Shakespearean classicist, Maurice Evans, was approached to do one before the series reached the air, but his agent turned it down. Now Evans is on the volunteer list and waiting to be cast. All receive between $3,500 and $4,500 for these guest shots.

SEVERAL renowned comics want to show off on "Batman," but Dozier won't use them, "because they'd try to be funny and this would spoil the effect," and with "Batman's" current rating, who is to argue with the expert?

A month ago Dozier was having trouble finding writers who would apply their talents to this comic strip art.

"I even drafted my son, Bob, whom I discovered knew more about 'Batman' than I did. I guess he was reading comic books, fortunately, when he was a boy and I was trying to get him to read 'Moby Dick.'

"But now he's gone back to his movie writing and other writers are knocking down the door to write for 'Batman'."

As happens with any big success in show business, "Batman" is falling heir to all kinds of bandwagon publicity which will snowball the series beyond the actual proportions of its audience.

-:-

DANNY KAYE, Bob Hope and Milton Berle (on an upcoming "Hollywood Palace" program) all are planning "Batman" comedy sketches.

Suit By Bishop Cites Diversion Of Church Funds

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A suit filed here by the bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Columbus, Ohio, alleges diversion of more than $200,000 in church assets.

The suit filed in Circuit Court on behalf of Bishop John J. Carberry names as defendants Joseph Gibson Foley, identified as the brother of the late Rev. George H. Foley, pastor of a Columbus church, and two Miami firms.

The suit contends some assets of the Columbus church were invested with the stock brokerage firm of Francis I. du Pont, of which Joseph Foley was a sales representative, and alleges that Joseph Foley withdrew $25,000 from the church accounts in 1963 and 1964. In 1965, the suit alleges, Joseph Foley caused du Pont to issue drafts for the balance, in excess of $175,000.

Eagle's Beauty Treatment Stirs London Birdwatchers

LONDON (AP) — The big golden eagle on the American Embassy is getting its biennial beauty treatment, but the embassy won't say what color it will be when the beauticians get through.

The 35-foot aluminum bird has been hidden behind scaffolding and canvas for about a week. The last time the public saw it the eagle had turned black from anticorrosion paint.

As workmen attempted to restore its original gold color, London birdwatchers feared it would end up sandy brown or retain a darkish hue. The embassy refused to be drawn into the speculation.

"The eagle is undergoing routine maintenance," a spokesman said. "This happens every two years."

Its color will be visible to all when the cover is removed early next week, he added.

The eagle stirred up a controversy five years ago when it was put up on the new embassy in Grosvenor Square. Many Britons complained that it was too large—larger than any British lion in the vicinity.

A lot of Britons also didn't like the modern lines of the embassy building designed by architect Eero Saarinen.

There have been no complaints recently, and unless it is being repaired most passersby pay no attention to the eagle.

8 Industries Win Renewal Permits For Dumping Waste

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Eight Ashtabula County industries assured the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board they are "very actively engaged" in treating industrial wastes and won provisional permit renewals Tuesday to empty matter into Buckeye waters.

The board voted to renew their permits for six months effective Feb. 15, after which another progress report is to be made.

The board headed by State Health Director Emmett W. Arnold also advised Allen County officials to go ahead with plans for sewage facilities in an area that will include a branch campus of Ohio State University.

The move was decided upon despite notice by the Department of Public Works that the state will build facilities in the university area unless the county started them by July 1.

Allen County Health Commissioner Gene Crawford called the matter "a real problem" because proposed location of state facilities would place them where they would drain into the Ottawa River which is Lima's only water supply.

County Prosecutor Robert Balyeat told the board the earliest the county could complete facilities to include the university area in Bath Township would be September 1967. Plans call for the branch campus to open this fall.

The board also ordered Greenfield, Highland County, to cease polluting "state waters" from its overloaded sewage treatment plant by Feb. 15. Health Department engineers told the board the problem stems from a burden placed on the plant by Collins Packing Co., "an industry the community does not want to lose."

Two Vote Opposite

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young, D-Ohio, was one of 27 senators signing a petition Tuesday seeking to invoke cloture on debate over the union shop bill. When the Senate refused, 51-48 with two-thirds majority required, to invoke its debate shutoff rule, Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, negated Young's "yes" vote with a "no."

With a total of 102,834 crimes committed in Chicago last year, the crime rate in that city showed a decrease of about 12½ per cent from the previous twelve months.

GOP Liberal Wins Election To Congress

NEW YORK (AP) — In the manner of the man he will succeed in Congress, liberal Republican Theodore R. Kupferman goes out today to thank the voters for his victory in a special congressional election.

Kupferman won a narrow victory Tuesday over Democrat Orin Lehman in a special election to fill the seat left vacant by the election of Republican John V. Lindsay as mayor.

Kupferman, 45, a city councilman and attorney, who campaigned on the promise he would be another Lindsay, said he would thank voters in a morning appearance in Manhattan's 17th Congressional District.

After his victory in November, Mayor Lindsay went out onto the streets to greet the people and thank them for his election.

Kupferman also promised that, like Lindsay, he would not follow the Republican line in Congress. He said he would offer "complete independence and constructive opposition."

The new congressman credited his election to the turnout of independent voters and to "getting up at dawn to meet the voters at bus stops and subway stations."

Lindsay and his wife, Mary, spent about 15 minutes at the victory celebration Tuesday night.

He told cheering campaign workers that Kupferman "won this fight entirely on his own, through hard work and by speaking the truth to his thoughtful constituents."

Lehman said that "on the basis of unofficial returns, Mr. Kupferman has won."

Complete but unofficial returns from the 361 election districts showed Kupferman with 44,225 votes; Lehman 43,230; and Jeffrey St. John, 7,810. St. John, 35, ran on the Conservative party ticket.

The district runs from Greenwich Village up through the wealthy East Side. It includes the radio and television networks, the advertising agencies, publishing companies and the heart of the midtown business district.

The prestigious district has a 3-2 edge in Democratic registration, but it has not elected a Democrat in almost 30 years.

Lehman, 46, grandnephew of the late Sen. and Gov. Herbert H. Lehman, had the backing of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Seven Arrested On Counterfeit Money Charges

CLEVELAND (AP)—Six men and a woman have been arrested by secret Service agents on charges of possessing and passing counterfeit $20 bills.

A hearing for three of the men and the woman, arrested Tuesday afternoon, was set for Feb. 23 before U. S. Commissioner Clifford E. Bruce. The other three men were nabbed Tuesday night.

Among the four arrested in the afternoon was Nick A. Imbrigiotta, 35, operator of the Whisper Room, formerly the Bird Cage Lounge, in suburban Parma Heights.

W. K. Deckard, agent in charge of the Secret Service office here, said Imbrigiotta had about $1,000 in counterfeit bills in his possession. Commissioner Bruce released Imbrigiotta on $5,000 bond.

The other three arrested Tuesday afternoon were released on $1,000 bond each. They were identified as Mrs. Ruth Sullivan, 38, of Parma; Robert L. Jordan, 35, of Cleveland, and George R. Smith, 30, Cleveland.

The men arrested Tuesday night were identified as James E. Pulley, 23, who was nabbed in Akron; Willard L. Murphy, 28, and Henry J. Ruppel Jr., 28, both apprehended in Parma. Their addresses were not available.

2 Ohio Cities Seen Short On Manpower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cleveland and Cincinnati were among cities discussed Tuesday concerning what Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz told the Senate-House Economic Committee is a manpower shortage in the Great Lakes area.

Arthur M. Ross, Bureau of Labor Statistics commissioner, testified that Cleveland with 2.8 per cent unemployment is experiencing backlogs of orders and longer delivery schedules. Shortages of workers in Cincinnati, Ross said, have begun to impede production in machine tool, metal fabricating and aircraft industries there. He said Cincinnati unemployment rate was at 3.2 per cent.

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Junior Editors Quiz on IGLOO

QUESTION: Why don't igloos melt when Eskimos build fire inside them?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: To make an igloo, an Eskimo slices drifted snow with a long bone knife. He makes blocks which are slightly curved so they will fit in a circle. He sets up a ring of these and shaves them so the height gets gradually higher toward the last block. Then, working from the inside, the Eskimo sets other blocks on edge so that they spiral up and lean in together. He leaves an opening at the top and fits a special kingpiece block in it, wider at the top than the bottom. Cracks are packed with snow. Then the Eskimo wife lights her blubber oil lamp, making it burn strongly. She goes outside and seals the igloo with a block of ice. The snow begins to melt but the curved form of the walls prevents it from dripping; gradually the blocks get wet through. Then the woman opens the entrance. Cold air rushes in and very soon the wet blocks have turned into strong ice. The Eskimos build an entrance with a low pit. Cold air doesn't rise so the cold stays in the pit while the interior is comfortably heated with the blubber lamp. Only a small amount of heat is needed; the intense outer cold preserves the walls as ice, keeping them secure and very strong.

FOR YOU TO DO: Cut a set of little blocks out of modeling clay and build a miniature igloo by following the plan shown in our picture.

ANNE ASHLEY

Q.—How can I prevent spotrings from forming on fabrics when removing stains from them?

A.—By placing a felt-covered furniture floor cup under the spot while applying your cleaning fluid. This, in addition to preventing a ring from forming, also aids in preventing the fabric from slipping about while you're working on it.

Q.—How can I make the steps on my stepladder slip - proof, thus reducing the possibility of accidents?

A.—Apply a fresh coat of varnish to the steps and while it is still tacky, sprinkle coarse sand or sawdust over the steps. This will give you the non-slip traction you are seeking.

Q.—How can I promote longer life in my candles?

A.—Give them a coat of shellac. This tends to retain the molten wax around the wicks, instead of its running down the sides of the candle.

Q.—How can I prevent paraffin from separating from the jelly glass?

A.—If the paraffin is too hot it will tend to separate from the glass later. Heat it slowly and carefully, and don't allow it to reach the smoking stage.

Letters Reveal Rewards Of Dieting

The real life stories revealed in our letters are often more fascinating than fiction. They so clearly demonstrate an individual's response to a challenge. Their life-changing decisions have, in fact, helped others to meet their problems with fortitude and courage.

Ida Jean Kain

One never-to-be-forgotten letter came from a soldier's wife. When her sergeant husband, decorated for valor, returned from overseas he was appalled to see that his "little" wife had taken on 100 excess pounds! As you will see from her letter, she fought her battle and won.

"I COULD NOT bear the disillusionment in his eyes when he looked at me. Without saying a word to him, I set about changing. Since there was no other time to exercise, I got up each day at dawn before the family was about. Not until I had reduced 40 pounds did he compliment me, and then he merely said, 'You're looking better.' Today I look and feel like the girl he married. My husband is more in love with me than ever . . . 'because you had the guts to fight' . . . was the way he expressed it."

She deserves a medal for valor, too. Above all, her response showed her great love for her husband.

A devastatingly frank remark from an old friend jolted a woman into resolute action. The remark: "I feel a sense of outrage when a woman of your beauty allows herself to become buried in fat."

"I wanted to die, then and there," she said. "I ran from the room. More than a year later I sought that friend out to thank him for waking me up."

A POIGNANT letter began: "My husband had asked me for a divorce. . . after 10 years of marriage. I was deeply hurt, but I had the children to consider and I could not fall apart. It took every ounce of courage I could muster, but I determined to make myself over and grow as a person. I started a sensible diet, exercised, took walks, gardened, read and steered my mind into channels to help in my new growth. I started a grooming program, too. I found I did have the time. By coming to grips with myself I opened a lot of closed doors.

"Today my husband is really in love with me. When I saw you facing things, instead of crying and giving up, I had new respect for you. I saw the real girl inside you emerging. You never seemed to care before..."

Had this young woman succumbed to self-pity, there would have been no happy ending.

Happiness is an achievement, never a gift. We salute these women!
